Plans for Bicentennial Observation Include Possible Visit by Ford on Jan. 3, 1977

The Fourth of July isn't as far ahead as you think. So far this year, the Bicentennial has popped here and there, like a single small firecracker, but as the weeks go by, Princeton will be more and more aware that it's 1976, all right, and 1776 isn't as far behind as you think.

History buffs, of course, know about historic houses to be marked for posterity and about work in progress at Clarke House on the Battlefield. But the town as a whole may have been startled into awareness of the Bicentennial by the long-distance runner panting into Palmer Square last Thursday all the way from--well, the Netherlands, actually. He was part of a relay team running from New York to Philadelphia, and he bore a torch of freedom, probably not the last to be borne through Princeton in months ahead

The variety of events planned to honor the Bicentennial provides something for everybody. For example, on July 8, four days after the Big Day, a troupe of 85 young musicians from Spokane, known as the Percussion-nauts Patriots, will stir the blood with fife and drum music in an outdoor concert at Battlefield Park.

The circuitous manner in which they found their way to Princeton is probably symbolic of the grass-roots planning for Bicentennial celebrations all across the country.

It was Mrs. John Gorman, 128 Cedar Lane, who heard about the Percussion-nauts Patriots through her grandchildren. The fifers and drummers, who range in age from 8 to 17, were going to be in the area anyway, and would be happy to visit Princeton if somebody could put them up--all 85 of them.

The "somebody" will be Princeton Day School, and the young patriots will sleep in the gym. They have a reputation as an outstanding group, and have played for such diverse audiences as President Ford and the crowds at Disneyland.

President Ford, incidentally, won't be present this Friday for the re-enactment of Washington's Inaugural Journey, which may end up at "Morven" late in the afternoon.

It is expected, however, that President Ford, who may or may not by that time be President-elect Ford, will be in town January 3, 1977, for the re-enactment of the Battle of Princeton in--of all places--Battlefield Park.

"We have no idea how many people to expect," says Princeton Community Bicentennial Chairman Stanley C. Smoyer. "They're estimating 10,000 but I suppose it could be 100,000 or even 1,000. The state is running that show but we're discussing traffic and routing with the police chiefs, parking with the University, sanitary facilities, maybe running shuttle-buses out to the Ba-

School Board Names Middle School Principal

The school board unanimously named as principal of the Middle School on Tuesday night a man who once taught guerrilla warfare in the Marine Corps. If he'd been present at the school board meeting, he might have felt right at home.

The audience and board witnessed a fusilade between board president Dietrich Meyerhofer and John Bailey, from the audience, in which Dr. Meyerhofer at one point summarily declared the meeting adjourned and threatened to have Mr. Bailey thrown out.

The board also announced a special meeting of its finance committee for next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Valley Road building. A list of 52 budget recommendations from Superintendent Philip E. McPherson -- presented in Dr. McPherson's priority -- will be discussed.

The new principal is William Johnson, currently principal of Englewood Middle School in Englewood, a position he has held since 1971. Mr. Johnson, who is black, was graduated from Springfield College in 1960 with a degree in physical education. He holds a masters degree in school administration from Seton Hall University.

From 1960 to 1963, he was a lieutenant in the Marine Corps, serving as company commander, training officer, armed forces policeman and guerilla warfare instructor. After leaving the Marines, he went to Oakland, Calif., where he taught physical education and science in a junior high school.

In 1965, he returned to Englewood, where he had lived as a youth, (he is a graduate of Dwight Morrow High School) and joined the Englewood Junior High/Middle School staff as physical education teacher. He helped to develop a sex education curriculum guide for the Englewood public schools and taught sex education in schools throughout the system. He also coached the Englewood Junior High 1967 county championship track and basketball team.

Bailey-Meyerhofer Dispute. The text of the Bailey-Meyerhofer dispute was Roberts Rules of Order. Mr. Bailey asked to speak, Dr. Meyerhofer refused him. When Mr. Bailey explained it wasn't a personnel question -- these are forbidden -- he was still denied the floor. In a soft, almost inaudible voice, he repeated his request. Dr. Meyerhofer repeated his refusal, banging his gavel and finally declaring, "This meeting is adjourned!"

"But where do we adjourn to?" asked boardmember Judith Getis. Someone in the audience asked whether there had been a formal motion to adjourn. There hadn't been so Winthrop Pike made one. But the motion was voted down.

Mr. Bailey kept trying, and finally Dr. Meyerhofer threatened to have him removed.

"Are we moving beyond concerned citizen imput?" Mr. Bailey asked.

"The chair has the privilege not to entertain questions," Mr. Meyerhofer said.

Ruth Randall drew a gasp from the audience when she said -- having been given the floor -- "A lot of us here have feelings about the way this meeting is being run. I was allowed, with courtesy, to speak, but I am white and Mr. Bailey is black."

Later, after the battle, Mr. Bailey was recognized. He wanted to know how the board planned to involve the community in setting Thorough and Efficient goals, and he expressed apprehension that staff reduction could harm minority employees.

The board is firing 10 non-tenured staff -- including seven teachers -- in a change from its staff-retention policy. Dr. McPherson sharply attacked the board, charging them with "tunnel vision" and taking "rifle shots" at the staff. Board member Joan Doig retorted that "emotion-laden words obfuscate the issues."

The board was scheduled, in private session, to discuss hiring a consultant to work on administrative structure. Dr. McPherson warned he would take "appropriate action" if this were done.

BOROUGH SAVED

Bleiman Will Ask Veto. Princeton Borough, luckless heroine who was about to become the Cinderella of Mercer County, has been rescued by the State Senate. On Monday, the Senate voted, 33-1, to pass the bill that will provide a so-called "stretch-out" of the new formula for sharing school costs in a regionalized district like Princeton's.

The bill, expected to be signed into law this Thursday by Governor Brendan T. Byrne, calls for a five-year phasing-in period. Under the measure, 20 percent of the change would apply in the first year and an additional 20 percent each year until finally, all costs are shared on a rateables basis. Ever since regionalization of Princeton's two districts ten years ago, costs have been shared on a per-pupil basis. The state-required shift to a rateables basis has meant a sharp increase in taxes for Borough taxpayers and a slight decrease in taxes in the Township.

Township mayor Jay Bleiman immediately decided to write Governor Byrne requesting a veto of the measure.

"If it had been a three-year phase in, I could have lived with it," he explained, "that would have meant only two years in which it wasn't 100 percent by rateables. But four years, under this plan, is too much. I'm torn between what would make it easier for the Borough, and what I feel is my responsibility to the Township taxpayer."

The mayor's letter has gone to the governor, the attorney general, the commissioner of education and the governor's counsel.

WE'LL BUY QUARRY

Care to Contribute? Fund-raising, from contributors large and small, will help finance Borough purchase of land for a park at the dead end of Spruce Street around the former quarry, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley and Council member Nelson van den Blink announced this week.

Council is scheduled to introduce the $300,000 bond ordinance for land purchase and the costs involved, at a special 8 p.m. meeting of Council this Wednesday. Public hearing will be Tuesday, May 11.

"Foundations, private individuals, the Quarry Park Association -- we'll approach them all," Mrs. van den Blink said.

The Borough plans to talk soon with Princeton Ventures, developers of the property, which is owned by Charles LaPlaca. The municipality will offer the appraised value of about $272,000, and will go to condemnation only if absolutely necessary, Mayor Cawley said.

"We needn't buy the whole property," he added, "we might leave one acre on the north side of Spruce Street Extension for housing."

In other business, Council is expected to discuss expansion of the library, asking trustees for justification of need and explanation of both capital costs and operating expense increases that would follow expansion. The latter have been estimated at $80,000.

One Man vs. Conrail

Not a man to get up ten minutes earlier than he has to, commuter Charles Cornforth, 71 Westcott Road, took on Conrail and the whole state Department of Transportation when the Dinky's 7:15 was changed to 7:05.

On the Dinky's lurching voyage to the Junction, he passed around a document listing three choices: "I like the new 7:05;" "I don't like it;" "I don't care." He got 36 "I don't like it" signatures and not a single vote for the other two. Thus armed, he went to the Department of Transportation in Trenton.

Sympathetic, understanding and above all, co-operative--the DOT put back the 7:15. As of next Monday. Sleep well.

Bicentennial Plans

tlefield. The weather may be very bad, of course."

Whether President Ford is locked in to paying a call on every Revolutionary battle re-enactment, isn't known. At least not in Princeton.

The next really big event in Princeton is the town's annual Memorial Day parade. It will be held Friday, May 28.

Veterans Wanted. Anyone who was ever in the Armed Services in any capacity is urged to take the uniform out of the trunk, lose enough weight in the next four weeks to get into it, and show up proudly, medals blazing, for the Memorial Day Parade.

The Rutgers and Princeton ROTC Old Guard have been invited to attend -- in costume. Details about where and when to get in line, will be forthcoming.

No parade in Princeton on the Fourth of July.

"It's hard to get bands -- they're all signed up," Mr. Smoyer says, "besides, there will be a big parade in Trenton and we decided not to compete with other places. Probably some local groups, like the YMCA, will be in that Trenton parade."

But the day will be observed, never fear.

Precisely at 2 p.m., all of Princeton's church-bells will ring out in splendid clangorous harmony with all the other church-bells throughout the country -- "from Samoa to Puerto Rico" -- in honor of the ringing of the Liberty Bell on July 4, 1776.

Bells on the University's campus, especially Nassau Hall, will join.

At the same hour, Colonel Kemble Widmer will fire the first gun, figuratively, of the Battle of Princeton and will take visitors on a tour of the Battlefield.

"We'd like to get some horses," says Mr. Smoyer, "but they're as hard to get as bands."

Fireworks Again. Fireworks, of course, will end the day. The American Legion didn't hold its usual fireworks display last year -- perhaps saving up for a bigger blow-out this year -- but this year, you'll be able to hear the noise all the way from Philadelphia.

Celebrations won't end just because the Fourth is over. In September, the Arts Council will sponsor an exhibit in Borough Hall of 100 photographs by amateurs and professionals, showing what Princeton was like in 1976. After all, there will probably be a 2076.

"Who will know what a skate-board looks like, unless we take pictures?" asks Anne Reeves, Arts Council president. Robert Denby, of the P.D.S. faculty, is the co-ordinator.

One of the most delightful Bicentennial treats will surely be "The Disappointment," a genuine 18th-century musical comedy to be performed in the Washington Crossing Open Air Theatre the weekends of August 27 and September 3.

Want to audition? Try-outs will be held May 8 from noon to 4 p.m. at the University's Woolworth Center.

You're Invited. Singers who can act and actors who can sing are invited to audition. The musical was unearthed by Scotia MacRae, an editor at the Princeton University Press, who has been working with Leyna Gabriele, teacher of opera theatre at Princeton University; the singer, Shirlee Emmons, head of the University's vocal music department, and Stanley Sonntag, who often accompanies Emmons concerts.

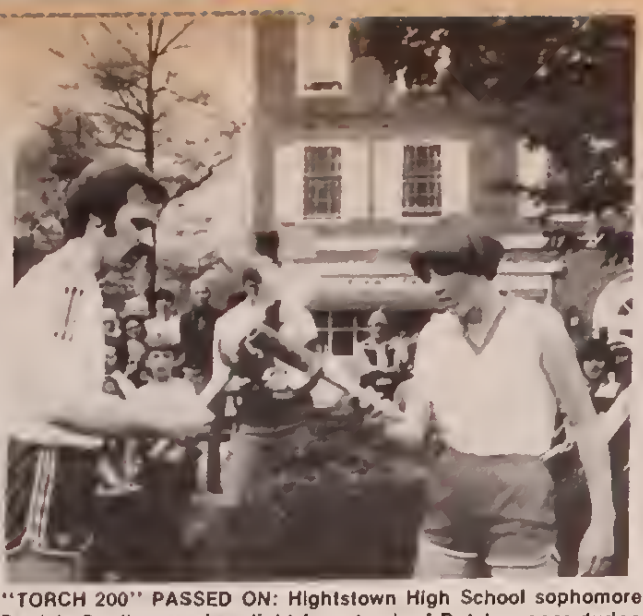
It's a mildly ribald musical and one of its hit tunes is said to be "Yankee Doodle."

Not long after this production--sometime in early fall--there will be a Colonial Banquet, with waiters in white wigs and syllabub for dessert. The idea, Mr. Smoyer says, is to make it pay its own way: you buy a dinner ticket, get a Colonial dinner in lots of atmosphere, and nobody goes into debt.

This isn't all, by any means. Members of Princeton's volunteer fire companies plan to donate, as their Bicentennial gift, lights to illumine the Battle Monument in front of Borough Hall. Lights would be permanent fixtures, according to Chief William Karch.

The University would like to find a donor willing to pay for the lighting of Nassau Hall too, not necessarily permanent lighting, but certainly something for the Bicentennial. As a start in getting the historic old building ready for great events, the University has already cleared away thick ivy around the spot where Alexander Hamilton fired a shot into Nassau Hall. Not from pique or undergraduate exuberance, but because he was captain of artillery and the British were inside.

"Morven," "Maclean House" and "The Barracks" will all be marked, probably on July Fourth itself. Richard Stockton, who was a signer of the Declaration, built "Morven" and lived in it; John Witherspoon, another signer, is identified with Maclean House, and "The Barracks" was a field hospital during the battle.



"TORCH 200" PASSED ON: Hightstown High School sophomore Patricia Bradley receives light from torch of Dutch runner during ceremony Thursday at Palmer Square, as Torch 200 passed through Princeton. Symbolizing liberty, fraternity and peace, the flame is being carried by athletes of various European countries from New York to Washington. It is a "Birthday Gift with Affection" from Europe to America as an expression of our shared heritage in celebration of this country's 200th anniversary. Joining in the ceremonies were Stanley Smoyer, chairman of the Princeton Community Bicentennial Committee, members of the Riverside and Community Park schools and Edith V. Francis, chairman of the educational committee of the PCBC. Riverside fifth-grader Emily Gordenker read a welcome in Dutch.

Information at Station

The Dinky station at the foot of University Place will be the visitors' center for people who journey to Princeton to see the Bicentennial sights. Just a few details remain to be worked out before the sponsoring Jaycees move in to refurbish.

That is, the Jaycees hope to move in. The question is -- money. The station is in a sorry state, especially its vandalized lavatories, and a lot of money will be required to put it in shape. "Work days" will probably be scheduled for late this spring, the Jaycees say, and everybody can pitch in and help when that happens. Meanwhile, a lot of expensive professional work must be done.

It was Mrs. Gordon Knox' idea to convert the building to a visitor's center. She carried on the complex negotiations, which included trying to find out who really owns the station, (Conrail? Penn Central? the Department of Transportation?), discovering a new owner every time she made an inquiry.

John Baker, Chris Tarr and Ed Salkind of the Jaycees are the operating committee.

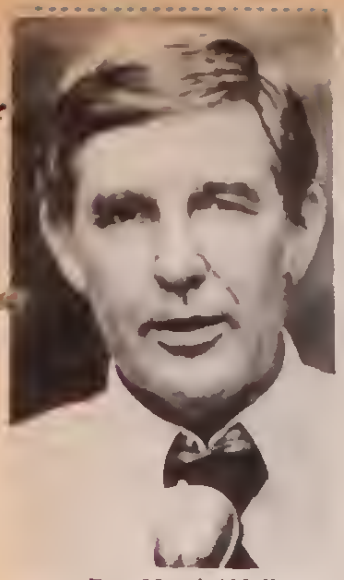
Borough Democrats to Have Primary Race; Schneier Withdraws over Screening Process



Rep. Morris Udall

TOPICS Of The Town

UDALL COMING HERE

On Saturday for Reception. Three weeks ago at Mercer County Airport, Democratic Presidential contender Morris K. Udall said New Jersey is important to him, promising he would be back in the state to launch an aggressive campaign for the June 8th Primary.

On Saturday, Mr. Udall will be back in New Jersey to fulfill that pledge. He is the first major presidential candidate to visit the state this year.

The Arizona Congressman will spend the day Saturday stumping the state to raise dollars for his New Jersey effort and to campaign for his delegate slates. He will conclude with an evening fund-raiser. Congressman Frank Thompson, co-chairman of the N.J. Udall '76 Committee; Fred Bohen, Mr. Udall's state coordinator here, and their wives will host the reception. It will begin at 8 at the Bohen residence, 128 Fitz-Randolph Road and is open to all. Information for the $25 per person fund-raiser is available through the N.J. Udall '76 Campaign headquarters, 188 Nassau Street or by calling 924-8407.

Henry Powsner said this week that he will run in the Borough Democratic primary, hoping he wins enough votes to run in November for one of the two three-year seats available this year on Borough Council.

The official Borough Democratic candidates are newcomers Irv Urken and Marvin Trotman and incumbent Martin P. Lombardo. Jan Schneier, appointed to Council New Year's Day after the resignation of Barbara Sigmund, has withdrawn from the contest for the two-year seat, announcing her dissatisfaction with screening procedures.

Running against the three winners of this race will be Republicans Maurice F. Healy Jr. and Priscilla Pols, seeking the three-year seats, and a Republican candidate from the 1975 race, Richard Woodbridge, who will be a candidate for the two-year seat.

Democrats haven't officially decided which of the three will run for the two-year seat, but it is understood that it will probably be Mr. Urken.

In the Township, Democrats will run David Blair and John Bauman. Republicans at press time said they weren't ready to announce. They had held off, waiting to see what the Appellate Court might say about their suit to have the fifth Township Committee seat filled. (See elsewhere, "Topics of the Town.")

Dr. Powsner, a radiologist and former member of the Princeton Regional Board of Education, lives at 4 Queenston Place. He was screened by the executive committee of the Princeton Community Democratic Organization like everybody else, but lost the nomination by one vote.

PHS Guidance Counsellor. Mr. Trotman is a guidance counsellor at Princeton High School and the coach of the high school's basketball team. He lives at 181 Witherspoon.

Mr. Urken, whose mother and late father started Urken's hardware store on Witherspoon Street, lives at 416 Nassau. He attended Hun and has been active in Princeton's business community and in local affairs.

Mr. Lombardo directs youth activities for the national Multiple Sclerosis Foundation office in New York. This will be his fourth run for a Council seat. Defeated the first time around, he has won election twice since that time. He lives at 16 Bank Street.

The Republicans' candidate, Maurice F. Healy, served on Township Committee (1961-63) and then moved to the Borough. A retired corporation executive most recently with Paul Stafford Associates, the management consulting firm, he lives at 191 Library Place.

Jan Schneier

Mrs. Pols is vice-president of Princeton National Surveys, Inc., a subsidiary of Gallup and Robinson, and is field director for G. & R. Her husband ran unsuccessfully for Council two years ago. Mr. Woodbridge has recently opened law offices in Princeton. He lives at 56 William Street.

Schneier Gives Reasons. Jan Schneier withdrew from the race last week. A student at New York Law School five days a week, she said she did not have time to run for office, serve on Council, attend classes and study and also serve as the Democrats' municipal chairman. But more lay behind her withdrawal.

"Screening by the P.C.D.O. was rigorous and nasty," she says, "a deliberate effort was made to beat the bushes and find other people after Marty (Lombardo) and I said we'd run. This is unprecedented in the Borough."

Ms. Schneier said that, although she went to the screening prepared to discuss issues now before Council, she was asked "vituperative questions of 'party', such as the relationship of the P.C.D.O. to Council." She said she was also asked why she thought it was important to name Democrats to appointive positions.

"I felt as though I were being screened for president of the club, not for public office," she declared.

It has also been learned that Ms. Schneier and her husband, Joseph Stonaker, face challenge in their own District 5 as Committeewoman and Committeeman. John and Suzanne Huntoon, 65 Jefferson Road, are said to be planning to run against Ms. Schneier and Mr. Stonaker for the posts.

OFF THE BRIDGE . . .

Art People Party. Sunday afternoon's Art People Party will be held after all. Not on the Washington Road bridge, but east of Washington Road. Faculty Road will be closed off from Washington to Fitzrandolph.

It looked, on Tuesday, as though the Party would have to be cancelled. West Windsor police said that, because of the Trenton Kennel Club show, there would not be enough police manpower to insure a free flow of traffic at both ends of the township.

Itt will begin at noon when 14-year-old piccolo-player Cynthia Woolston plays Pied Piper, prancing from the top of the Jadwin Gym hill.

The procession will head for the census table on the Jadwin side of the bridge, and everyone all afternoon will be invited to that table to sign, with real ink, the rag-paper booklet that will be a permanent record of the day for some Tricentennial celebration.

Dancers? Of course. Aparri, the Princeton Ballet Society (they'll be doing a hoe-down), the Olubay Dancers from the Youth Center with dances from Africa, the young girls from the Ballet Workshop, Lee Arons' folk dancers (you can dance, too).

And music! The Arts Council of Princeton, sponsors of the annual Art People party, hoped for an old-fashioned picnic without electricity, but it's impossible. Music, therefore, will be at times and places when electricity is available in this out-of-the-way corner of the town. The Sine Nomine singers, Barry Petersen and his guitar, the Fordham Road Blues Band....

Greek pastries, herb tea, fennel cake, fried chicken and good ole hot-dogs.

And wait'll you see the kites flying from the bridge! There's to be an air sculpture, too, made of 18 balloons, crepe paper and the rods to hold your wishes and thoughts. Write them on paper during the afternoon, tie them on – and the "sculpture" will be sent aloft to drift into the sky. One copy of each "thought" will be kept earth-bound, to capture the day for history.

Are you arriving by boat? Many are. The Y's sailing group will be there, and lots of people who know life-saving techniques, so don't be apprehensive.

The crafts that are always an Art People feature, will be on the bridge itself, arts will be hung on snow-fencing.

If you're young, you'll want to watch Street Theatre and Kenny and Nadia Glucksberg's puppets doing "Hansel and Gretel." You may also draw pictures for the Children's History of Princeton.

Be sure to wear picnic things -- your best boater and white flannel trousers, your picnic dress with the leg-o-mutton sleeves. See you Sunday at noon!

On 206 South. A slick road surface made slippery from a rain that caused an oily condition was blamed for an accident Thursday shortly before noon on Route 206 South some 1,000 yards from Edgerstoune. Four persons were injured.

A truck owned by SOS Gases of Kearney began to skid rounding a sharp curve. It went up on a shoulder area and then crossed the opposite lane, where it struck a utility pole.

The skidding truck forced a car coming in the opposite direction into the same pole. A second following car struck the right rear of the truck.

The truck driver, Robert J. McCabe, 24, of Dunellen, and a passenger, Joaquin B. Lavrador, suffered minor injuries. Susan S. Stanburg, 33, 9 Fieldston Road, driver of the second car, sustained lacerations of the eye, and her daughter, Jennifer, 6, complained of a head pain. All were treated at Princeton Medical Center.

Anne R. Sparrow, 37, 225 Hun Road, the driver of the third car, escaped injury. Her sports car and that of Mrs. Stanburg had to be towed away.

Driver Injured. Deon A. Schroeter, 17, of Kendall Park, sustained head lacerations last week when her car, exiting from the drive of Stuart Day School, crossed over the center line, and struck the front of a car operated by Joann M. Leary, 33, of Trenton. The mishap took place 60 feet from the school entrance.

Mrs. Leary escaped injury. Ptl. Peter Savalli is continuing the investigation.

RESTAURANT ENTERED

Scotch Taken. The Alchemist & Barrister Restaurant, 28 Witherspoon Street, was entered last week by a thief who has a taste for scotch as well as money.

Police report an unsuccessful attempt was made to enter a cash register but taken were a half-gallon of Cutty Sark, and quarts of Chevas Regal and Johnny Walker Red valued at $30. Entry was through an unlocked kitchen window.

A larceny at his home was discovered early last week by Leo J. Brannick, 140 Grover Avenue.

Property valued at approximately $500 -- mostly cash and a coin collection – was taken by the intruder who ransacked the house. Police report that a bathroom window above a patio roof had been broken to get inside.

Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli investigated.

FIVE ARE CHARGED

In Nassau St. Drug Raid. Three Princeton residents and two from Trenton were arrested last week after Borough police conducted a drug raid in an apartment at 246 Nassau Street.

Police seized approximately 2.5 pounds of marijuana, narcotic paraphernalia and confiscated $661 in cash. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the raid was the result of a month-long investigation by Detectives Timothy Huizing and Ronald Holliday of the department's narcotics bureau. All of the suspects are presently free on $2500 bail.

Arrested and charged with possession of over 25 grams of marijuana and possession of marijuana with intent to sell were: Lucas G. Ritschl, 20, 246 Nassau Street; Jonathan W. Rock, 18, 369 Riverside Drive; James Dawson, 24, 41 Moran Avenue; Charlie A. Roberts, 38, and Sherri Terrell, 20, both of Trenton.

The raid was conducted last Tuesday evening at 11:25 by the two detectives armed with a search warrant. Assisting were Sgt. Ralph Procaccino, Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt, Ptl. Gerald Patterson and Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli.

APPROVAL FOR SHEEHAN

To Convert Garage. Timothy J. Sheehan's 146 Dundas Corporation was granted permission by the Borough Zoning Board Thursday to convert the ground floor of its building in the rear of 357-9 Nassau from a garage to an apartment. The second floor of the structure is already an apartment.

The permission took the form of a conditional use authorization and the board was unanimous in its approval. At the start of the hearing, board attorney William von Oehsen told Mr. Sheehan that the old, nonconforming lot doesn't meet either the 6,000-square-foot requirement for a single-family dwelling or the 6,600-square-foot requirement for a two-family dwelling. Mr. Sheehan might have to prove that it would be a hardship to him if the zoning board didn't grant his request, Mr. von Oehsen warned.

DRUG RAID SPOILS: Seized by Princeton police in a drug raid at a Nassau Street apartment were these bags of marijuana, narcotic paraphernalia and $661 in cash.

Mr. Sheehan, who is a lawyer and who acted in his own behalf, protested that in his view, the need to prove "hardship" didn't exist in this case.

The argument went back and forth for almost half an hour. Mr. von Oehsen said, "I'm not saying Mr. Sheehan must present a full-fledged case of 'hardship', but only that the board might consider this."

"I've been put on notice that I may have to prove 'hardship' but if I guess wrong, I'm dead!" Mr. Sheehan protested. "The board has never raised the 'hardship' issue with any other applicant for conditional use authorization. I don't see why the rules are changed for 146 Dundas."

"If a lot is undersized, that's a fact to be considered," Mr. von Oehsen replied, "but it hasn't in the past been handled strictly as 'hardship.'"

Without Prejudice. "I detect a feeling on your part of an adversary relationship where Dundas is concerned," observed board chairman Roger McDonough, "Each application is new -- with no built-in feelings about past conflicts, grievances or misunderstandings."

Mr. Sheehan is suing the board because it refused permission for him to construct an additional two stories on his unfinished building at Markham and Nassau. He has also sued the board over two recent decisions not involving him directly: the granting of approval for construction of townhouses on Willow Street and permission for the Alchemist and Barrister restaurant to remodel.

Board member Michael Rockland suggested the board consider Mr. Sheehan's case. If it decided Mr. Sheehan did indeed have to prove hardship, then the hearing could be postponed to allow the applicant time to build a new case.

That satisfied applicant, counsel and board and after consideration, the board voted 5-0 to grant his conditional use authorization. The "hardship" question was dropped.

Board member Alan Chimacoff said the property was 60 percent deficient in area as it is. Mr. Sheehan's conversion to two-family use would increase that deficiency by only six percent -- "negligible," he said. He added that Mr. Sheehan's plans to remove over half the present blacktop parking area and convert it to a patio probably took care of the needed 600 square feet.

Worse Than an Eyesore. After the decision, Mr. Sheehan told the board that if the court rules against him in the two-story addition to his office building, he might board up the ground level – where the Zoning Board has said he may expand retail space – renting the space "as is."

"It would turn the building from an eyesore to an abortion," he said.

Mr. McDonough asked why a board sidewalk had been laid down at the property.

"When you've spent $700,000 and eight years and $45,000 in taxes and lost all your property, including your own roof, and have seven children to feed, clothe and educate, you don't worry about sidewalks," Mr. Sheehan replied. "For the past three years, I've had to rely on the earnings of my oldest children."

Mr. Sheehan has been in litigation with the Borough for many years over the unfinished building.

WHOA!

Horse Breaks Window. A coin-operated mechanical horse located in the Princeton Shopping Center mall was tipped or pushed through a 4-by-6 foot plate glass window of the Young Ages shop during the weekend. It was reported Sunday by manager Sandra Anderson, who gave police a replacement cost of $200.

SEWER ACTION DUE

One Plant or Three? Princeton's two Environmental Commissions have, unanimously, declared their support of Plan D– the three-plant sewer system proposed for the Stony Brook sewer region.

The nine alternative proposals for sewer systems were scheduled for discussion and action at this Tuesday's meeting of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority.

In reply, Authority chairman Ezra Bixby, who said he was writing as an individual, not on behalf of the Authority, took issue with the reasons given by the two Commissions.

"Your joint Commissions have always enjoyed the highest reputation for balanced judgment, recognition of all the facts and the benefits of regional activity," he wrote. "Your response to the current problem in no way is representative of that reputation."

The Commissions said the three-plant "Plan D" had the "least impact on ground water supply in the upstream area." Mr. Bixby said all plans would have an adverse affect, but declared the difference among them to be only plus-or-minus 5 percent. He brushed aside concern about sedimentation and erosion as short-term difficulties related to construction, which the Authority is aware of and "dedicated to controlling."

To Environmental Commission concern about growth potential in the area, Mr. Bixby said "there is absolutely no documentation that one plan would produce more growth than others." The Commission said Plan D "could relieve current water quality problems in the upstream region," but Mr. Bixby said in his reply, that neither Hopewell nor Pennington Boroughs had water - quality problems, and in Hopewell Township, where water quality may be a problem, the plan provides no service.

GALA DAY SATURDAY

At Rocky Hill. Rocky Hill has planned a Bicentennial Gala Saturday from 10 until 7:30 as a celebration of its historic past and lively present. Craft demonstrations and musical entertainment will take place all day, and the three village churches and all public buildings, such as the library, the fire company and the rescue squad headquarters will be open to visitors and have displays of memorabilia.

The focal point of the day will be the House Tour from 1 to 5. Seven Rocky Hill homes ranging from Pre-Revolutionary to contemporary (1963) will be open, as well as an exquisite garden of native plantings and historic Rockingham. Tickets are available at Hinkson's on Nassau Street, Center Stationers in Princeton Shopping Center and at Marsh & Co. Pharmacy and Towne Wine and Liquor in the Montgomery Shopping Center.

Parking for the day will be available at Ameliotex on Crescent Avenue, with overflow accommodated at Gamma Tech and First National Bank of central New Jersey. A jitney service will be provided to all points of interest throughout the day, and tickets, maps and programs describing the House Tour and the activities will be at the parking lots.

Refreshments will include a cafeteria-style lunch at the First Reformed Church; punch with cookies and cake; and the annual smorgasbord supper at Trinity Church. In addition, the Rocky Hill Inn and The Place will also be open and serving.

Other events include a kite-flying contest from 10:30 - 11:30 on the school grounds, followed by square dancing until 1 when the Blawenburg Band under the direction of George Soete will play until 4. The Sine Nomine Singers will present a contemporary as well as an American program at the Meritt Agency between 2 and 4, and Barbershop Singers will entertain diners at Trinity Church between 5:30 and 7:30.

A Colorful Past. In the "Traveler's Directory," published in 1804, Rocky Hill was located on the map as "the Devil's Feather Bed" and described as "very difficult and dangerous to pass, from the great numbers of massy stones promiscuously distributed on the surface." Rocky Hill was a recognized community at the time of the Revolution, and its few inhabitants were active in the cause of the colonies.

On January 3, 1977, George Washington and his Army passed through the town on their way to the bitter winter encampment in Morristown. In 1778 on his way to the decisive Battle of Monmouth, the last full scale encounter with the British in New Jersey, Washington's army again marched through Rocky Hill.

However, the town is famed most for the General's prolonged stay in 1783 while Princeton was the capitol of the Continental Congress. Rockingham was rented for Washington's use because the Congress wanted him nearby for his "assistance and advice in the arrangements for peace." In October of that year Washington prepared his Farewell Address to the Armies of the United States, and legend says he read it to his attending soldiers from the

Souvenirs It Provided to Aid Mercer Oak

The storm which damaged the historic Mercer Oak in Battlefield Park left behind dead branches which will now benefit collectors as well as benefit the old tree.

The Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society salvaged some of the wood, which has now been turned into Bicentennial souvenirs by a group of students and faculty members in the Industrial Arts Department of Princeton Day School. Small squares and natural cross sections of branches have been cut, polished and decorated by silk screen process with Princeton's Bicentennial logo of the Mercer Oak silhouette.

All money raised by the sale of these pieces will be used for a fund for the future care and protection of the Oak itself. Prices range from $2 to $7.50, and these souvenirs will be on sale at the Historical Society in Bain bridge House, 158 Nassau Street.

After these dramatic moments in history, Rocky Hill resumed being a quiet village surrounded by rolling farmlands, even though it was served by both the Delaware and Raritan Canal and the Camden & Amboy Railroad for the 100 years from the 1830's to the 1930's.

TOWNSHIP CASE HEARD

Decision Date Unknown. Both Republicans and Democrats hope the Appellate Court will decide quickly how the Township should fill the vacant fifth seat on Township Committee. But there was no indication, following Monday afternoon's brief hearing, when the three-judge court might hand down a decision.

The actual hearing took only about 15 minutes. Judge John Fritz, who asked more questions than the other two judges, confined most of his questioning to the "previous incumbent" factor in the case. Township Republicans have appealed to the Court the decision of Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch declaring that a Democrat should be appointed to the vacant seat because the previous incumbent was a Democrat. They are also appealing Judge Schoch's ruling setting aside last November's election.

The case developed from a broken voting machine in the Township's District 12. The machine showed only one vote for Democrat Abbot Low Moffat and Mr. Moffat thereby apparently lost the election to Republican Tod Peyton.

YMCA's Annual Antiques Show to Honor Signers of Declaration of Independence

FOR YMCA ANTIQUES SHOW EXHIBIT: This mahogany Queen Anne Chair from Morven will be part of an exhibit arranged by Mrs. John Shepherd (left) and Mrs. Bruce J. Westcott of chairs in the styles in use during the 135-year span of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence. Elric Endersby also had a hand in the exhibit.

Mindful that its building stands on the site occupied by Avalon for more than 150 years, the YMCA seven years ago decided upon an Antiques Show as an annual benefit to raise money for program and camp scholarships. This year's show will take place Saturday and Sunday, May 1 and 2, and the entire building will be transformed by the 39 antique dealers who will display exhibits of antiques and collectibles ranging from glass, china, silver, paintings, furniture and oriental pieces at prices from $5 up.

The dealers come from Maine to Kentucky, and while many have exhibited in previous years, there are always new entrants. Patricia Cross comes from Maine, bringing a composite of glass, china and fine pewter. The Country Squire from Kentucky is new this year and will show fine American furniture.

Agnes Sheehan of Kingston will again exhibit her collection of toys and old dolls, and clocks of all types will be shown by The Timepiece shop in Bound Brook. There are several Pennsylvania dealers represented on the list, some specializing in jewelry and others in early American primitive furniture.

This year's special exhibit is one called "The Signers' Room," in which Mrs. Bruce J. Westcott, Mrs. John Shepherd and Elric Endersby have assembled 13 chairs representing the styles of furniture in vogue during the lifespan of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. The period covered stretches from 1706, the birth of Benjamin Franklin, to 1840, the death of Thomas Carroll of Maryland and covers five styles: William and Mary, Queen Anne, Chippendale, Federal and Empire.

Included in the exhibit are three chairs which actually belonged to Signers: a New Jersey mahogony Queen Anne which belonged to Samuel Woodruff and is on loan from Morven; a Chippendale which was owned by George Reade, a signer from Maryland; and a "klismos" chair of the Empire period, a classic Greek revival type, which has been traced to Daniel Webster. To make their exhibit of chairs in high as well as primitive style more interesting, the three co-chairmen have also gathered antiques that men might use, such as humidors, books, glasses, beakers, and candlesticks all set against a backdrop of Mr. Endersby's collection of old printed fabrics.

Hours for the exhibit will be from 10 until 10 on Saturday and 12 until 6 on Sunday. Admission for adults and children alike will be $1.75, and a drawing for a door prize of an antique will be held Sunday at 5. There is ample free parking, and refreshments will be served.

MAN IS CHARGED

By Inn, Police. A Princeton man has been charged by the Nassau Inn with malicious damage to property and by police with being drunk and disorderly, following his arrest shortly after 1 Thursday morning in the Inn.

According to police, Jeffrey A. Smith, 19, 38 Pardee Circle, had been drinking in the tap room and became belligerent when the bartender refused to serve him more. Smith allegedly broke a lamp and a glass partition in the lobby before he was arrested by Sgt. Robert Anderson, Ptl. Gerald Patterson and Ptl. John Holcombe, who responded to a call from an employee that a "man was in the lobby drunk and breaking things up."

Smith is scheduled to appear in Borough court on Wednesday.

The same day at 7:20 in the evening, Smith appeared at police headquarters to sign a complaint of assault and battery against James Young, 68 Clay Street. He gave his address as 31 Humbert Street.

The next day, Mr. Young signed a counter complaint against Smith, charging him with assault and battery. The assaults allegedly took place on Clay Street, police said.

ANOTHER ARREST

For William Btackburn. William Blackburn, 49, no known address, was arrested again last week by Borough police who charged him with assault and creating a disturbance. He faces a court appearance on Wednesday.

He was arrested at 7:29 last Tuesday evening by Det. Charles Harris. Earlier in the day, Chief Michael Carnevale reported that police had been called at 3:50 and again at 6:20 to "investigate a madman on the street."

According to Chief Carnevale, Det. Harris observed Blackburn to be under the influence of liquor, loitering and creating a disturbance. He allegedly entered the mini-park around the Tiger on Palmer Square and scattered some elderly citizens from park benches.

He continued, Chief Carnevale reported, to harass pedestrians and motorists, shouting profane and indecent remarks, concluding each with, "I represent the Soviet Union."

Chief Carnevale said further that Blackburn allegedly struck a passing woman pedestrian with one of his swimging arms, causing her to retreat in fear.

"And thus ends another chapter in the history of Mr. Blackburn," said a grim Chief Carnevale.

CHARGES PILE UP

Following Street Fight. Three Princeton residents face a number of police charges that stemmed from a fight Thursday evening at Witherspoon and Lytle streets.

Det. Ronald Holliday and Patrolmen William Fitch, James Agins and David Alston responded to a call reporting that a fight was in progress between George Kornegay, 23, 14 Quarry Street, and Conway McGowan, 26, 246 John Street. The fight continued as police arrived.

They attempted to place McGowan under arrest but he fled the scene and was later apprehended by Township Ptl. Harry Morton. McGowan was charged by Det. Holliday with fighting, offensive language and creating a disturbance while under the influence of liquor. He was charged by Ptl. Alston with resisting arrest and was later released under $1500 bail on that charge.

Kornegay was charged by Det. Holiday with fighting and interfering with a legal arrest, and James Miller, 23, 7 Lytle, was charged with interfering with an arrest. Both were released after being issued complaint summonses.

NEW CHAPTER PLANNED

Of Embroider's Guild. A Princeton Chapter of the Embroiderer's Guild of America will be formed at a meeting Thursday, May 6, at 10:30 at All Saints Church.

Mrs. Muriel Bishop, the president, will speak briefly and those present will partake in a Show & Tell, each one bringing an example of her current project in needlework. Sandwiches should be brought; tea and coffee will be provided. The Guild was formed to maintain high standards of all forms of needlework, and all those interested are invited to attend.

MANY FOODS OFFERED

At June 12 Fete. There will be plenty of good eating places and a variety in menu choices at the June 12 Spirited Fete, the Auxiliary's annual fund raiser for the benefit of The Medical Center.

Dishes to please any palate will be available to eat at the Fete grounds or to take home and enjoy later. Food co-chairmen Mary Ann Linton and Lynne Loog have organized hundreds of volunteers to bake, cook and sell a delicious bill of fare.

Hot coffee and doughnuts will greet the early arrivals. Thirst-quenchers throughout the day range from iced tea, sodas and milk, to wine and beer served in a mini-beer garden along with Dutch pretzels and music.

Chicken will be barbecued by volunteers from the Lions Club; 12,000 hot dogs and hamburgers have been ordered and will be served by dedicated workers, including a group from the Rossmoor Golf Club. Hoagies, tacos and pizza are also offered.

For desserts, the Doctors' Wives will run the Strawberry Patch, where 1,000 quarts of strawberries will be used for strawberry shortcake to eat at the Fete or to assemble at home. The Great Dessert will offer a variety of sundaes plus banana splits. The Nassau Presbyterian Church Youth Group will man the Dairy Bar where one will be able to buy ice cream in all forms.

Gourmet foods, frozen hors d'oeuvres, casseroles and desserts are available to take home. Baked goods made by the efforts of members of many area church groups will be sold, ranging from brownies and cookies to pecan pies and fruit tarts. As a new offering, the Cranbury Women's Auxiliary will sell their homemade herb salad dressing, made with herbs from their own gardens.

WHO'S IN CHARGE?

Housing Confusion. What's the difference between the Princeton Housing Group, the Housing Sub-Committee of the Planning Board and the Housing Committee of Borough Council?

Uneasy lest outsiders get them all mixed up, the Planning Board Monday night decided to try and straighten out the jurisdictions -- especially where talks with Princeton University are concerned.

The board decided to devote its meeting next Tuesday (8 p.m., Borough Hall), to discussion of the new housing proposals of the housing sub-committee. It will be the only item on the agenda.

Borough Council member Jan Schneier is housing chairman for Council. On her committee are Council members Gus Escher, Martin P. Lombardo and Joseph P. Moore.

The Princeton Housing Group, formed almost 25 years ago, to work for integrated housing, has as its chief spokesman Robert Hosford. The group is concerned about Princeton University's housing plans – or what the group sees as lack of them. Mr. Hosford got in touch with the University to find out whether that institution ever plans to implement housing proposals made during the last years of Robert F. Goheen's presidency. Mr. Hosford then went to Ms. Schneier and reported on his visit.

"I've been trying to get a meeting with University people, but I've had no answer to my letters," Ms. Schneier reported this week. "I'd like to have a preliminary meeting with the University, see what they're prepared to do, and then have a second meeting with them, drawing in the housing sub-committee of the Planning Board."

No intention of leaving out the Planning Board's housing people, Ms. Schneier says, "The Princeton Housing Group asked Council members to put pressure on the University, and I believe myself that elected officials have more influence."

Ms. Schneier said her colleagues are concerned about housing shortages the University is causing in the community. "They aren't providing for their own people," she says.

At the Planning Board meeting, board member William Walker suggested that, if Mr. Hosford's group is successful with the University, it could have profound effect on the new housing proposals of the board's housing sub-committee.

"I'd like to be sure the public – and the University – knows who's doing what," observed Township Mayor Jay Bleiman, who sits on the board, and board member Margen Penick asked whether it was appropriate, under the "Sunshine" law, for four members of Borough Council to meet outside the public eye.

Voters in New Jersey Prefer Either Carter Or Humphrey to President Ford, Poll Shows

The New Jersey POLL

If the presidential election were held today, either Jimmy Carter or Hubert Humphrey would decisively defeat President Ford in New Jersey, according to the latest New Jersey Poll. This statewide survey, conducted by the Eagleton Istitute of Politics of Rutgers University, was completed in the first week of April, before the Wisconsin and New York primaries.

Carter led Ford, 47 to 40 percent, with 13 percent undecided. Senator Humphrey ran ahead of the President by a margin of 48-43 percent, with 10 percent undecided.

Two other Democratic contenders, Senator Henry Jackson and Congressman Morris Udall, did not run as strongly. Jackson narrowly outpointed Ford by a 43-42 percent margin, while Udall ran far behind at 49-35 percent.

Although Carter and Humphrey got a very similar proportion of the total vote, their support comes from different groups. Both Democrats trailed Ford among the state's Independents; however, Carter lost by only one point at 43-42 percent, while Humphrey lost to Ford in this group, 48-39 percent. Among conservatives, the President led the former Georgia governor by the narrow margin of 45-43 percent, while Humphrey trailed 50-41 percent.

Among voters over 50, Humphrey defeated the President, 50-40 percent, while Carter ran behind Ford, 44-42 percent. However, among voters under 30, Carter defeated the Republican by the decisive margin of 52-37 percent while Humphrey ran behind Ford 46-44 percent.

Other major groupings in the state also showed differing preferences when the two leading Democrats were matched against the President. Humphrey did better among union members and blue collar workers, while Carter led Humphrey among all the state's ethnic groups with the exception of the Irish. Carter did equally well with men and women while the Minnesota Senator did better among men.

Poll officials pointed out that, in general, Humphrey did the best of the four Democrats among groups that Democratic candidates have traditionally relied on, such as blue collar workers and union members. Carter, on the other hand, did best with groups that have been drifting away from the Democratic party, such as ethnic voters and conservatives.

They added that Jackson did not do as well as Humphrey among traditional Democratic groups andwas not as successful as Carter with groups that have become less supportive of Democrats in recent years. Congressman Udall ran less strongly than the other three major Democratic eandidates among all groups in the state.

CAREER DAY HELD

At Hun School. Classes were suspended last week at the Hun School for juniors and seniors to attend an all-day career day program. Libert Diaforli, director of training and development at McGraw-Hill in New York City, was the keynote speaker.

Careers ranging alphabetically from advertising-marketing and architecture, to finance and fine arts and to transportation and writing were discussed. Students had previously listed on a questionnaire four career choices they thought they would be interested in. Girls were required to attend a session dealing with "Careers for Women in a Changing World," led by Ms. Jessie Hartline, an associate professor of economics at Rutgers.

Area residents and the careers they discussed included George Gallup Jr., advertising-marketing; Anthony D. Pirone, architecture; Herbert Hobler, communications; Dr. Albert Beaton, data processing; J. Eleonora Sabadell, engineering; James J. Hughes Jr., finance; C. CAR IS STOLEN

From Shopping Lot. When Barbara Melchor of Trenton went to start her car parked in the Princeton Shopping Center lot on Saturday, she discovered that she had lost her keys while shopping.

She returned the next day with a new set, only to find that her 1974 sedan, valued at $3500, had been stolen.

TRENTON PAIR CHARGED

With Bicycle Thefts. Two Trenton men have been charged with larceny and possession of stolen property after they allegedly took two bicycles from the Princeton University campus.

Freddie Washington, 21, is charged with taking a 10-speed Fuji bike from Holder Hall, and George Ellis, 31, is charged with taking a 10-speed Targa bike from the same dormitory. Both were later taken to Mercer County Jail in lieu of $250 bail.

Their arrest was the result of the combined efforts of Borough police, university proctors and a witness. They were apprehended Monday morning at the Griggs Corner Amoco Station by Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm.

Police also listed the theft of two more bikes last week. A 5-speed Schwinn bike, valued at $98, was taken from the grounds of Princeton High School -- it was unlocked -- and a $150, 10-speed Samuria bike, also unlocked, was taken from in front of the Princeton Medical Center.

A WAY WITH PLANTS

At Mazur's Nursery. Coaxing infant plants to grow is second nature to Irene Perna for she has been a part of the nursery business all her life. In fact, as she watered some recent cuttings the other day, she commented, "I even learned to walk in these greenhouses."

She is the daughter of George Mazur, who for 40 years ran a successful and well-known wholesale and retail nursery business in Lawrence Township. Last year Mr. Mazur retired, but Mazur Nurseries has continued under the ownership of Irene and her husband, Alfred Perna.

Over the years with the introduction of packs which contain anywhere from six to 12 plants, the retail part of the business grew tremendously. Once everything was planted directly in the soil, and then had to be dug and wrapped before it could be sold. Now, however, the plants can be started in the packs, and when mature enough, set out as they are for the customer to pick up and take with him.

Despite this improvement April, May and June remain busy months, with long hours and scarcely a free moment. In fact, Irene worked the entire time we talked. She said, "You've got to really care about what you're doing in this business. You can't leave it up to someone else."

Located on Baker's Basin Road, this is Mazur's only location and nearly everything that is sold here, is also grown on the property or in one of the five greenhouses.

The Pernas grow for what they call the "right season." What this means is that they do not recommend planting any tender annuals until the middle of May. Although the point is argued, it is impossible to predict the last frost, and Irene can recall losing a bed of tomatoes as late as May 17. And she is quite sure of the date, because it's her birthday.

Don't Jump The Gun. While the early heat wave may have made you anxious to get things started, Mazur's still advises waiting. Irene told us "Ageratum and marigolds don't even like the upper 30's and the nights will still go that low. While it won't kill them, it will stunt their growth." Here the tender annuals are still in the greenhouses, and before they are placed out for sale, they will be gradually hardened off with double and then single covers at night.

However, many plants are tougher, and these are ready for planting. There are the early vegetables such as lettuce (Iceberg, Romaine, Burpee Green Ice or Buttercrunch,) cabbage (Ruby Ball Red Head or Market Topper) and yellow Spanish onions; packs of Majestic pansies in mixed or solid colors; and ground covers (pachysandra, myrtle, several ivies or ajuga). These range from $1.10 for a pack full of onions to $2.25 for a pack of six myrtle plants.

The perennials are ready too. "Dad once had 200 kinds of these," Irene said, "But they get less popular as years go by because of the expense." However, this year in a new departure, she has tried to cut the digging overhead by starting delphinium and primroses in packs. The delphinium packs cost $1.50 and contain five healthy-looking plants.

Then grown in the more traditional one-plant-to-a-container method you'll find lupine, shasta daisy, asters, coral bells, funkia, Jacob's Ladder, Virginia blue bells and many more, approximately $1.45 to $2.25 a pot.

As is probably obvious by now, variety is a main feature at Mazur Nurseries. They have 30 to 40 petunia varieties (singles, doubles, cascading and the Bicentennial Old Glory ones;) 17 different marigolds (Nugget, Moonshot with a 3-inch yellow flower, singles, doubles, tall, medium or dwarf ones and even a red variety;) and eight or nine types of tomatoes – one for every taste (big, sweet, acid and Burpee's new Big Girl which is even better and more disease resistant than her famous brother, Big Boy.)

Mazur's primarily uses hybrid varieties which have been developed for their strengths and disease resistance. However, the cost is considerably higher. For instance, one ounce of Rutgers tomato seed costs about $4 while one ounce of Rutgers hybrid tomato is $36.

$1,000 Worth of Impatiens. "People don't realize what we go through," said Irene. "It is possible to buy $1,000 worth of impatiens seed and get nothing." However, they have had good luck this year with the two new varieties recommended – Cinderella, a dwarf impatiens in seven colors and Shadeglow, a tall variety in six colors, $1.50 for a pack of six.

There are two new begonias this year too, both of which have large blossoms and are very weather tolerant -- Glamour and Scarlet Sensation.

Other annuals include snapdragons, zinnias (including the pretty hybrid Peter Pan,) geraniums, and the yellow Boston daisy which

OLD GLORY PETUNIAS: Flowers are celebrating the Bicentennial too, and Irene Perna of Mazur Nursery is all set with a pot of red, white and blue Old Glory petunias. There is also Spirit of '76 lantana. However, regardless of the flowers you choose, Mazur's freshly painted flag booth clearly expresses its enthusiasm for this year.

Mazur's features as they are one of the few who grow it in this area.

Then there are all kinds of herbs, peppers and eggplant for later planting, a greenhouse of houseplants and lots of hanging baskets -- such as lantana, trailing verbena, ivy geraniums, ice plant, fuchsia and even a new tomato called Tumbling Tom.

New this year is a plastic hanging basket that assembles in three parts so you can plant in several side openings, as well as on the top, $2.50 in white only. Irene has filled one of these with Burpee's extremely pretty Green Ice lettuce, which if you hung near the Tumbling Tom would give you a ready salad right on the patio, $4.50 for the lettuce and $7.95 for the tomato.

Mazur Nursery, located on Baker's Basin Road (off Route One at Robert Hall's in Lawrence,) is open daily from 8:30 until 6, with the exception Saturday when it closes at 5 and Sunday, when it closes at 4:30.

Book by Paul Fussell Wins National Award

"The Great War and Modern Memory" by Paul Fussell, 26 Lilac Lane, has won the National Book Award in the arts and letters category. Prof. Fussell is a member of the English department at Rutgers University.

A work by another Princeton resident, "A World Destroyed: The Atomic Bomb and the Grand Alliance" by Martin J. Sherwin, 58 Longview Drive, a member of the research staff and lecturer in the history department at Princeton University, was nominated for an award in the history and biography category but was not chosen.

Prof. Fussell is the author of several books, including "Samuel Johnson and the Life of Writing," written in the publish or perish tradition by a serious scholar in English literature. The popular and critical success of the current book, which was published by Oxford University Press, has astounded him.

The book is in its second printing, looking to a possible third, and has won the National Book Critics Circle Award for the best book in criticism as well as a designation by Time magazine as one of the five best works of nonfiction written by an American in 1975.

The book details the experiences of the British in World War I and how the conflict "transformed an innocent outlook into an ironic or even skeptical one" that carried over from the battlefield to the fields of writing and art and other aspects of our culture and society. The war helped establish irony, disallusionment and pessimism as the main tone of modern writing both in England and the U.S., he says.

Professor Fussell was severly wounded in France during World War II. As he recovered he read voluminously of the earlier Great War that was supposed to end all wars. He says he felt too emotional about the Second World War to write about it and so wrote about World War I to register his opinion about war in general.

Tim Rollings, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rollings Jr. of 110 Patton Avenue, placed 132nd in the Boston Marathon in 2 hours, 44 minutes and 37 seconds. He graduated from Princeton High School in 1969 and from Muskingum College and now is physical education director of the YMCA in Lafayette, Indiana.

Charlotte Brasic, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bound of 28 Morningside Court, Pennington, received a bachelor of science degree Summa cum laude in occupational therapy from Tufts University, Medford, Mass. She completed all requirements for graduation in December.

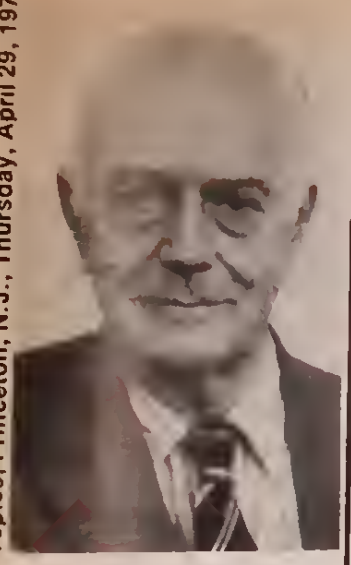
Origin and Meaning of Nation's Great Seal Described in Pamphlet by Princeton Author



Kenaston Twitchell of 81 Alexander Street has created a one-man Bicentennial celebration with the publication of an attractive 12-page pamphlet which he wrote "to make plain the meaning of America as shown on the Great Seal." Entirely on his own initiative, he researched the creation of the Seal through six years, three committees and several artists until its adoption in 1782, seven years before the Constitution itself was ratified.

Handsomely printed by Princeton University Press on off-white paper, the pamphlet shows the Obverse, or front, of the Seal with its familiar eagle in color on the front and the less familiar Reverse, with its unfinished 13-level pyramid and the "Eye" of God on the back. Both the Obverse and the Reverse are on every dollar bill, and yet, as Mr. Twitchell describes it, the Reverse was not cut in brass as the Obverse was. Funds were twice appropriated by Congress, but it was not until 1935 that a new design for the dollar bill was ordered by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morganthau.

Mr. Twitchell, a 1924 graduate of Princeton University who also studied at Oxford, was prompted by his interest in the inner meaning of America as its leaders saw it 200 years ago. He writes that "The Obverse of the Seal may be said to represent the power and strength of America. The Reverse has to do with the beliefs of the Founding Fathers as to how this nation came into being and where it was destined to go."

Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson and John Adams were named to a committee "to prepare a device for a Seal" within hours of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Their efforts as well as the designs of two more committees were turned down by Congress but some of their ideas were incorporated into the final version which was prepared by Charles Thomson, Secretary of the Continental Congress from 1774 to 1789. Interestingly, Thomson was an orphaned immigrant to this country in 1730 who was later offered a post in his school by Benjamin Franklin.

Copies of the $1 pamphlet will be available this week at the University Store and perhaps later at the Historical Society. Mr. Twitchell has accepted no royalties for the project. His interest is in promulgating "the ideas that have crested to the top in the struggle for freedom (which) are the stuff of the mind and spirit of this land."

James M. Banner Jr., of 79 Deer Path, a professor of history at Princeton University and author of "To the Hartford Convention" and "Blacks in America", has been reelected to the national Governing Board of Common Cause, the 265,000-member citizens lobby headed by John W. Gardner.

Mr. Banner is one of 20 newly elected or reelected Board members who received the largest number of votes among 58 candidates in the membership-wide election.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

Computerized Service Provides Instant Answer To Individual Needs for Retirement Planning

David Dingle

David Dingle of 25 Cleveland Lane is a certified financial planner with a difference: a computer terminal in his brief case with which he can build a model of an individual's financial needs in a matter of minutes. He has been asked to speak to the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, May 5, and to demonstrate its immensely practical financial planning capabilities.

His tool is a Computone Systems KeyPact portable computer terminal linked by a toll-free Watts telephone line to Computone's IBM 360-65 computer in Atlanta, Ga. Using a telephone receiver placed directly on it, the computer scans electronic signals and "talks back" in a synthesized voice response in the same way a synthesized telephone "operator" gives wrong number information. The numbers presened by the computer can be written down systematically on forms which organize the information into a complete financial analysis.

According to Mr. Dingle, the uniqueness of the system is the way in which a client can build his own model of — for instance — how much money he would like to have on retirement, flicking the buttons in the briefcase computer himself. After feeding in the pertinent facts on such things as age, income, mortgage needs, education needs, insurance plans and other assets, the client can hear and see almost instantly where his plans so far may have fallen short of his desired goals.

Mr. Dingle points out that the computer has no axe to grind and is comprehensive in its ability to present all the variables in a clear and easy-to-understand manner. The computer will, for instance, lay out viable alternative paths to financial independence after retirement both inside and outside of I.R.A., Keogh, TSA and Qualified plans, and on an after-tax basis.

Other applications include computing the tax impact on estates using several different estate planning options. It is also possible to evaluate equipment lease or buy decisions or run a year-by-year cash flow analysis on investment property or to compute the value of an acquisition or an entire business.

Once the financial analysis has been completed, Mr. Dingle implements whatever program is decided upon. He becomes the broker on record for insurance programs, funds, tax shelters or annuities and works closely with other brokers. He emphasizes that his service is not a substitute for advice or counsel from a lawyer or an accountant but is designed to complement that advice by putting the whole financial picture together in a readily available form.

Mr. Dingle was formerly involved in the tax shelter business but came to feel that there was a need for knowing the total financial picture in planning those programs. He saw an ad in the Wall Street Journal describing the KeyPact computer and several workshops later became an independent CFP with his own briefcase computer. He operates out of his home as David Dingle Associates and covers a territory from the Delaware Valley to metropolitan New York.

PROTEST NEW BANK

In Shopping Center. More than one hundred people who live in the streets around the Princeton Shopping Center have signed a protesting petition scheduled to be presented this Wednesday at the Township Zoning Board hearing on the request of Princeton Bank and Trust for a drive-in bank in the northwest corner of the Center.

"Cars strung out, awaiting their turn, would create a major nuisance," the petition states. "Even worse a line of idling cars would pollute the atmosphere with noxious carbon monoxide."

The bank wants to place its motor-bank about 50 feet from the front line of the Shopping Center. The zoning ordinance requires a minimum front-yard setback of 175 feet and, according to Robert Hosford, 430 Terhune Road, a signer of the petition, the 175-foot setback was intended to be a permanent "green belt buffer" to contain the Center within its bounds and prevent what the petition calls "commercial spillover."

The petition cites "past attempts to build a post office, a heliport, office complexes and additions to the A & P, and to make Terhune Road a busy thoroughfare," and declares the signers' objections to "repeated efforts to change our neighborhood from residential to commercial."

The board is also scheduled to hear the third installment of Carnegie Development's plans for townhouses on north Mt. Lucas Road.

In Annual Festival. All Saints' Church will again be host to the annual Diocesan Convocational Acolyte Festival on Sunday at 5:30. The service of Choral Evensong will begin with a procession from the Trinity-All Saints' Cemetery Monument to the church, weather permitting.

The Right Rev. Charles R. Summers, Dean of Convocations of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey, will attend and participate in the service, and the Rev. Kenneth D. Aldrich, Jr., Rector of St. Luke's Parish, Westville, N.J., will preach the sermon. Music will be provided by the All Saints' Choir, David Agler, director of music. The public is welcome to attend.

The Rev. Dr. A. Orley Swartzentruber, rector, noted that over 100 acolytes were involved in the procession last year. "With each acolyte wearing the robes of his parish, we have probably the most colorful procession that can take place during the Church year," he said.

FILMS PLANNED

For Wilkerson Visit. Two movies will be shown on the University campus on Tuesday in connection with the upcoming visit of evangelist and youth worker, David Wilkerson, on Thursday, May 6, in Jadwin Gym.

The first film, "The Cross and the Switchblade," is based on the book by the same name that has sold over 10 million copies. Starring Pat Boone, it will be shown at 8 in McCosh 10. It is the true story of Mr. Wilkerson's experiences as a young country minister who left his parish to work with the street gangs of New York City.

It is also the story of Nicky Cruz, leader of the suicide mau-mau gang, who is now an ordained minister working with youngsters himself. Following "The Cross and the Switchblade," a 45-minute documentary, "The Road to Armageddon," will be shown. It portrays in dramatic footage every sort of Biblical plague from locusts to earthquakes, storms and wars and gives support to Mr. Wilkerson's concerns for the future.

Both films are open to the public, no admission charged.

Dallas Holm, a crusade soloist with the David Wilkerson Youth Crusades organization, will appear with Mr. Wilkerson Thursday, May 6, at 7:30 in Jadwin Gymnasium. A former member of a youth rock group, he takes a personal interest in youngsters who have turned to drugs.

Anyone wishing to have a part in this ministry by helping to provide for the expenses of this event may make checks payable to the David Wilkerson Youth campaign, and send them to the Dean of the Chapel, Princeton University.

ANCIENT RITE REVIVED

Saturday at All Saints'. The Holy Eucharist held Saturday at 5:30, a regular joint Trinity-All Saints' function, will be celebrated this Saturday at All Saints' according to the Keltic Rite. Father Ronald Conner, who is working towards his Ph.D. at the Seminary, and Peter Jeffrey, a Ph.D. candidate at the University in music history, have translated early texts from the Latin and will celebrate the Mass and be in charge of the chant, respectively.

As early as the fourth century, there were Christians among the Keltic people of the British Isles. Their church was organized according to a system of monasticism derived from Egypt and contributed much to the rest of medieval Europe through extensive missionary work and great learning. St. Patrick was a Keltic Christian.

ALL SAINTS' FLEA MARKET: Mrs. William Walker and Mrs. Howard Bellizio, co-chairmen of the All Saints' Flea Market, cataloguing some of the articles which will be for sale at the "Special Treasures" table on Saturday.

The Annual Anniversary Dinner will be held Wednesday, May 19, at 6:30 at the County Line Inn. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Budny or Mrs. Boccanfuso at 921-8935.

Church Women United will meet throughout the world in May Fellowship Luncheons on Friday, May 7. Women of the Princeton area will gather at noon at All Saints' Church on Van Dyke Roads. Dr. Katharine Sackenfeld, assistant professor of Old Testament at Princeton Theological Seminary, will speak on "The Bible and Women: a Re-reading of Genesis."

All Saints' Church, Van Dyke Road, will sponsor its First Annual Flea Market on Saturday, from 9 until 4. Antiques, crafts, special treasures, plants, baked goods, re-cycled small appliances and other articles will be for sale at reasonable prices. Luncheon may be purchased from 11 until 2, and snacks will be available all day.

To rent a table call Mrs. William Hesse, 924-5093. Rain date is Saturday, May 8.

The 50-voice Adult Choir of the Nassau Presbyterian Church will sing A German Requiem by Brahms Sunday, May 9, at 11. Soloists will be Evelyn Bloom, Soprano; Robert Jacks, Bass; Mary Helbig, Harp; Harriet Chase, Timpani; Stephen Weicksel, Organ and Mary Krimmel, Director.

The Princeton Chapter of the Waldensian Aid Society will hold its annual meeting Thursday, May 6, at 4 in Tennent Hall Lounge, 108 Stockton Street. Dr. Herbert Stein-Schneider of Washington, DC, a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary, will discuss the influence of the Waldensians on the life of St. Francis of Assisi.

Over the past 30 years Princetonians have supported the work of this historic minority church in Italy. For nearly 800 years, the Waldensian Church has ministered to orphans, to the elderly and to the desperately poor. All those interested in hearing about Peter Waldo and his followers are invited.

Firestone Wants You To Know About Real Estate

Preparing Your House For Sale — Inside

Before you even call a real estate broker to evaluate your home's current market value, consider the importance of spending some time improving it first on the inside. What your broker feels about the marketability of your home will be directly reflected in the price he quotes you, and will certainly influence the sales associates' appraisal of your property. If they like it, they may sell it for more.

By far the most important drawback to a sale, on the inside, is clutter. What distinguishes the usual home from a model home is personal effects of living scattered all over the place...junk piled high on the kitchen counter, a basement overflowing with collectibles, a closet overstuffed with clothes, toys scattered on the floor and under the beds in the children's rooms. Solution: put things away neatly, or give them away. The Hospital Fete could use them, and so could your church rummage sale.

With the clutter gone, take a close look at the walls. If they have marks and smudges that won't clean off, give the important walls a fresh coat of paint (preferably white or another light color). Cost is minimal, so is time if you use a roller (three hours or so per room.) If you don't have time, get some help, either a professional painter or a university student at the Student Employment Office (452-3335). Paint is the least expensive, biggest improvement you can make in your home's appearance.

Next try the Windex bottle or a solution of ammonia and water on the windows. If you can bring the outside in, you are bringing in light. Most buyers feel a light home is a cheerful home. The price you get will reflect this.

Lastly, check all of your lights to see you have light bulbs in them. Even up the wattage from 60 to 100. If your buyer and his agent can see clearly wherever they go, it is easier to sell your home than another. Give your home the advantage.

Fire resistant concrete block and brick masonry exceeds local building code. This type of construction prevails in all 220 units, community center, 80 bed health center, and dining facilities. Your retirement comfort is Twining Village's aim.

2. Your Family Visits

Your family can drop in, leave your grandchildren and there will be room, sleeping accommodations and nutritious Stouffer meals. Twining Village is Tender Loving Care (TLC), during your great retirement years.

3. All Weather Walkways

Fully covered and glass enclosed weather-proof walkways allow full walking freedom. Wide hallways, gazebos and absolutely no steps make visiting and exercise a pleasure. This is a TLC feature at Twining Village.

4. Your Own Kitchen

Your home at Twining Village contains a full all-electric GE kitchen. Although Stouffers serves 3 meals daily, snack food may be kept in your own kitchen for an occasional meal and the fun of puttering. Air conditioning and heating are by GE and individually controlled.

5. Privacy with Neighbors

Twining Village residential clusters were designed to provide an independent life style with quality, comfort and simplicity. Interconnected against weather are gardens, recreation areas and gathering rooms. Bring your zest for life and the ability to meet our medical and financial requirements.

6. Recreation

We provide recreation areas and buses that take you to shopping malls, religious centers and local attractions. The "Tattler", will be our newspaper and our own TV station will broadcast music, news and Twining Village activity.

7. Security

Our security program will feature electronic surveillance, walking uniformed personnel and the finest sensor equipment. Visitors will be courteously identified and assisted. Paths and grounds will be kept in tip top order by our maintenance crew.

8. Total Lifetime Medical Care

The Twining Village 80 bed health care center is right in the middle of things. The medical staff is on duty 24 hours, and doctors in all specialities are on immediate call. A pharmacy is on the Twining premises and several hospitals are nearby.

We'll buy your freedom for one year.

(Your first year's maintenance and recreation charges are on us if you buy now.)

Frankly, it's an added incentive to persuade you that life at Avon Village means real freedom for you. Freedom from your landlord if you're a renter. Freedom from all exterior maintenance chores if you're now a home owner. Condominium living at Avon Village offers the advantages of both but none of the disadvantages. You get the same substantial tax benefits and equity build-up that you would with any home. But you never have to worry about exterior maintenance chores. You get another big plus at Avon Village. Freedom to enjoy the outstanding facilities at Twin Rivers: Four swim and tennis clubs, ballfields, shopping center, banks, library, medical and dental offices and two elementary schools — right on the premises. Plus the use of Avon Village's gracious private clubhouse. All this, while living in a beautiful home with central air conditioning, plush wall-to-wall carpeting — even a complete GE appliance package with refrigerator, oven/range, dishwasher, clothes washer and dryer included in the price.

Take advantage of our special offer — and the ideal way of life at Avon Village. Let us buy your freedom for one year. It will mean freedom forever for you.

PART—TIME ADMINISTRATIVE ASST. AVAILABLE

If you had a first class administrative assistant like I do, you'd be a happy person. She was the cream of a crop of 150 candidates I was able to choose from recently. Luckily for you, she is available, as I am closing my Princeton consulting office. A more competent organizer you'll never find. Great grasp of a wide range of projects, intelligent questioner of procedures and tactics, relentless tracker of follow-ups. Very refined in dress, appearance, manner; college-educated, the works. She has been working about 25 hours a week and wants to keep to that. Needs a bit of flexibility to accommodate occasional family responsibilities, but will work 'round the clock when needed. My loss is your gain, if you have the right situation for her. Please reply with all particulars to Box E-71, Town Topics.

Chet Stroup Comes Home and Reports on Decade He Spent as Haddonfield School Superintendent

Chet Stroup is back in town.

If you moved to Princeton any time in the last ten years, you may be asking, "Who's that?" But if you were here before 1966, the name "Stroup" is as familiar to you as "McPherson" because, between 1960 and 1966, Dr. Chester Stroup was Superintendent of Schools for the Borough of Princeton.

Before that, from 1946 to 1960, he was principal of the old Nassau Street School (now University property) and in 1953, he became assistant superintendent and held both jobs until he moved into the superintendent's office in 1960.

"It's good to be back," he said this week.

He and his wife, Kay, moved into their new Erdman Avenue home on April 7 and the phone hasn't stopped ringing since.

Chet is still the big, genial, unflappable guy with the quiet bass voice. Hair a bit longer–and a bit greyer–but you'd know him anywhere.

At Haddonfield 10 Years. When Borough and Township schools merged in 1966, Dr. Stroup -- who had supported merger -- decided a tempting offer from the Haddonfield school system was more than he could resist, and he went there to be superintendent just ten years ago.

He retired from Haddonfield last June, but Princeton is by no means Retirement Village.

"Some of my cronies in the Graduate School of Education at Rutgers asked me if I'd like to be -- well, sort of 'Superintendent in Residence,' so I've been up there this year on a visiting professorship, and I'll probably be back there next year. It sounded so exciting, and it is -- one of the most rewarding things I've ever done."

"I have three classes, about 12 teaching hours a week, of masters and doctoral candidates, people preparing for principalships or already in the job. My own job is to take the theoretical background they've already had, and apply it to life."

"Part of the challenge to me," he grins, "is to bone up!"

Dr. Stroup's own doctorate is also from Rutgers, by the way, and he taught there occasionally in the mid-'50s.

Learning by Acting. In his current job, he does much of his teaching by simulation and role-playing, assigning students the part of "Principal," "Head of the Language Department," "Teacher", letting them play it all out and then opening the "performance" to a critique.

"We use a case-study approach, analyzing cases for knowns, unknowns, probable consequences, 'a' solution. One of my courses lasts from 9:20 to 2 p.m. My God, I thought, how can I stay alive! But those hours go by so fast! What I've learned in the past ten years, what I learned in Princeton -- that's what I can contribute."

"A lot of people in my class are well along in their careers. I had one student, a superintendent in a south-Jersey district. 'I've got these five sending districts,' he said to me one day, 'can I sit down for an hour and tell you about it?'"

Haddonfield is much like Princeton, Dr. Stroup found, even to the presence of RCA and the pleasure of a tree-lined main street. The school system has 2,800 children, three elementary schools, a junior high and a high school with 1,000 students.

One of Chet Stroup's major projects in Haddonfield was the remodeling of the 1929 high school. Describing a situation uncannily like Princeton's Chet tells about carefully redoing the old building to keep the 1929 "Colonial" charm the students and townspeople loved, then adding a $2-million wing, all with the enthusiastic involvement of the town every brick of the way.

A Leader in Science. "In sciences, the school is second to none in New Jersey," he smiles with pride. "We offer biochemistry, genetics, cellular biology, the usual PSSE physics plus Harvard physics."

"A computer science program is integrated with the science and math departments. We saw the chance for computer-aided instruction, so we went for in-house, and had the capability for rather

THE PLACE IS FAMILIAR: Who's that in front of what used to be the Nassau Street School? Why, it's Chester Stroup, who once sat at the principal's desk in that very building. "I feel nostalgic about this old Nassau Street School," he says. "I'm so glad the University didn't tear it down."

IT'S 1938: You can tell by the pin-striped, double-breasted suit. It's "Mugs Money," Triangle's 1976 show, brazenly disregarding the Bicentennial and concentrating instead on another side of the American scene — gangsterland. These partners in crime are David McAllis, Paul Dengel, Clayton Platt and Chad Restum. They're in Chicago — where else? — in the post-prohibition years and are up to no good.

"MUGS"

87th, for Triangle. It's the first time since 1972 that Triangle Club has had a musical comedy with an actual story to tell, and you can find out plot and denouement when "Mugs Money" opens this Thursday night. It will also play Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Curtain-time is 7:30 Thursday and Sunday, 8:30 Friday and Saturday. "Mugs Money" will return for Reunion weekend with performances June 4 and 5.

In "Mugs Money," we have Big Gus Martin and his mugs entering politics on the side of law and order, of all things. Meanwhile Spats, a mysterious killer whose very name brings Gus to his knees, or so Triangle's publicity writer says, terrorizes the town. Well, there is tap-dancing, the streets of the Windy City and all kinds of other nostalgia. And as a bow to the Bicen., Triangle promises a big dance number which is "a tribute to the U.S.A."

"APPALACHIAN SPRING"

By Graham Company. McCarter made a special request, and as a result, the Martha Graham Dance Company has agreed to perform its "Appalachian Spring," when the company appears in McCarter next Monday (8 p.m.).

The work will replace "Seraphic Dialogue" on the program. Set to the music of Aaron Copland, "Appalachian Spring" is Miss Graham's most famous work. The company will also offer "Diversion of Angels," "Lamentation" and "Errand into the Maze," all previously announced.

"THE INVITATION"

"Movies-at-McCarter." The 1973 Swiss film, "The Invitation," will be shown next Wednesday, May 5, at 8 in the Movies-at-McCarter series. The director was Claude Goretta.

An office party at a country estate in summer provides the frame for Goretta's film. Guests include the ubiquitous office clown, the pompous manager and his embittered assistant, a middle-aged secretary and the office sexpot. The New York Times said....superior fiction, which manages to be simultaneously banal and mysterious, commonplace and poetic.

BENEFIT SCHEDULED

Broadway Hit Coming. In an evening to raise money for the Legal Defense and Educational Fund, the Fund's Princeton Committee will fill McCarter Theater with heart and soul on Tuesday, May 11, at 8 by sponsoring a performance of the hit Broadway musical, "Me and Bessie." Starring Linda Hopkins, "Me and Bessie" is a portrayal of the legendary blues singer, Bessie Smith.

"The show is just great - all heart and soul," says Clive Barnes of The Times. "Linda Hopkins has a tremendous voice that is also daring and impeccable. And the songs are funny, witty, ironic, cheerful, bawdy, heart - breakingly

MIME, AT INTIME

Evenings, Matinees. A new company of mime actors will give five performances in Murray Theatre under the auspices of Theatre Intime. The schedule calls for 8:30 performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 6, 7 and 8 and 2:30 performances May 8 and Sunday, May 9.

The group, the Princeton Mime Company, wasstarted by Mark Schaeffer, sophomore at Princeton University, who had studied and performed mime while in high school. Last May, he gave a one - man mime show called "Things" at the University's Truck Stop theatre, and he inspired other students to learn mime themselves.

Last fall he held a series of workshop - classes and he now has a troupe of ten, all University students. In the first semester, Mr. Schaeffer taught the basics of mime, combining conventional teaching with sensitivity excercises and improvisation. In the second semester, the group worked toward the May production.

On the Intime stage, there will be presentations by small groups and by the full company, as well as original solo pieces. Mr. Schaeffer says his emphasis is on technical excellence, and helping each company member develop an individual style.

COMEDY CONTINUES

At Princeton Inn. Princeton Inn Shakespeare Players will continue their third production of the season, an extravaganza of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Nights Dream" Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30. For reservations call 452-6094.

"Midsummer Nights Dream" is Shakespeare's lively festival of love and illusion. Director Duncan Brine has set the stage with audience clustered throughout the intimate Inn Theater. In addition to acting the part of Coriolanus in an earlier Players' production, Mr. Brine has directed musicals, comedies and naturalistic plays.

Heading the cast are Fred Schultz as Theseus-Oberon; Nadia Benabid as Hopolyta-Titania; Melissa Dodge as the mischievous Puck and Anthony Santangelo playing Bottom.

"QUEEN JANE"

New Play at Inn College. Queen Jane is Lady Jane Grey, and the new play by William Lord and Marvin Harold Cheiten to be produced at Princeton Inn College, deals with the nine days she ruled England in 1553.

"Queen Jane" will be performed four times -- Thursday through Sunday, May 6, 7, 8 and 9 at 8:30 p.m. in the Princeton Inn College Theatre. Reservations may be made at 452-6094 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Daniel Berkowitz is the director. Formerly executive director of Summer Intime and most recently the director of Inn Cabaret – due to return this summer to the Nassau Inn – Mr. Berkowitz is well-known to audiences in Princeton.

In the cast, Mr. Berkowitz has Jill Hurwitz, the Volumnia in "Coriolanus" earlier this year, as Queen Jane. Northumberland, the head of the Privy Council and instigator of a plot to put Jane on the throne, will be Churchill Clark. Jon Lorrain and James Price will be the villainous Lord Arundel and Jane's husband, Guilford. Others in the cast are Georgine Freedman, Nat Hartshorne, T. Harding Jones, Bill Agress, Jack DiMonte, Dave Hummel, Roger Lipman, Roderic March, Loyal Watterworth and John Wible.

"Tony" for Rabb

Ellis Rabb, director of McCarter's revival of "The Royal Family," won an Antoinette Perry ("Tony") award for his work. The comedy opened in Princeton last October, moved to the Kennedy Center in Washington, then to the Brooklyn Academy of Music and finally to the Helen Hayes Theatre on Broadway, where it now is playing.

Mr. Rabb's brand-new APA Repertory Company performed at McCarter in the 1960-61 season and thereby inaugurated the theatre's policy of an annual season of drama.

Farce Currently on Theatre Intime Stage Matches Billing: "Weird, Wacky, Bizarre"

"The Marriage of Bette and Boo," a farce by C.B.S. Fellow in Playwriting Christopher Durang, opened at Murray Theatre last week. The Theatre Intime's final offering of the season may be seen this weekend from Thursday through Saturday.

The billboard outside Murray Theatre proclaims that "The Marriage of Bette and Boo" is weird, wacky and bizarre. It is.

Boo and Bette get married. It is not a success. Boo has a father who drinks a lot and is rude to his wife, and he has a mother who is good-natured to the exclusion of any other noticeable virtue. Bette has a father who is a mute and who plays cat's cradle when he isn't overeating birthday cake, and she has a mother who has brought up three rather heterogeneous and unsuccessful daughters.

Bette also has a sister, Paula, who bets that things will go wrong and tries to help them to be; and another sister, Miriam, who believes in miracles but can't play the violin and can't make a cake though she tries hard. Bette looks for spiritual help from Father Delaney, who doesn't really listen to confessions but is awfully good at imitating bacon in a skillet and coffee percolating. She has her babies delivered by a doctor who can't tell whether the baby is alive or dead.

A Touch of Sanity. Poor Bette. No wonder she would rather live in a world peopled by Winnie-the-Pooh characters. Poor Boo. Nicer than his father, he is just as useless.

And poor Skippy. Yes, Bette and Boo do produce one live child, who is touchingly sane in the bizarre, wacky, weird world which playwright Durang has created.

With some clever lines and a good bit of slapstick satire, "The Marriage of Bette and Boo" is more amusing than the above resume might suggest. On the other hand, it is less amusing than the hard-working actors deserve.

This reviewer may well be uttering a minority opinion, but the play affected him somewhat like the reading of a comic strip. An occasional frame may contain a socko laugh, but the good feeling you get from seeing a clever cartoon palls when it is repeated at length. By the time Bette's fifth baby thudded to the hospital floor, I felt that the cream of the jest had grown a mite sour.

"Quiet Magnetism." There are some attractive performances to gladden even a curmudgeon's heart. I was charmed by John Meyer's quiet magnetism, both when he is announcing the inning-by-inning score and when he enters the line-up as Skippy.

Margaret Emory gives superb energy to the part of Bette. Arthur Miller, saddled with the chore of delivering a comic monologue, comes through with credit. Denise Seutter and Geoff Rich belt out a gorgeous duet that stirs the blood after the thin diet of humor preceding it.

Finally, I invoke reviewer's license to stop being unbiased and admit to the culmination of a four-year love affair. If Kathie Shenton and Winnie Holzman really mean to carry out their threat of graduating this year, let it be recorded that as Miriam and Mud they are sheerly delightful. Winnie and Kathie, you have never played comedy better, and the undersigned loves you.

The director, Mitchell Ivers, deserves credit for maintaining a fast pace, a notable achievement with a play broken up into 26 (?) scenes or episodes. So does the set designer, Mark Nelson, whose transformation of the proscenium into a huge television screen suggests that what the audience sees is not real life at all. And so do Judy Weiss and John Ewing for their nimble and faultless lighting.

Above all, at this finale of the 1975-76 season, great credit must go to Theatre Intime as a producing organization. For courage, originality, and the high quality of their productions, they deserve the support of an ever-widening public.

SUBSCRIPTIONS SOUGHT

By George St. Playhouse. The George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick will celebrate the start of its 1976 spring subscription drive just prior to the April 30th performance of "The Threepenny Opera," the final production of its second season. The goal of the drive is at least to double the 700 subscriptions the Playhouse has sold during 1975-76.

A subscription to the Playhouse offers the convenience of phone reservations that allow subscribers their choice of performance rather than assigning the performance date and seat months in advance. Subscribers have their choice of six out of seven plays and may reserve adjoining guest seats up until the week of the performance.

Subscription prices are $24 for six $6 tickets and $20 for six $5 tickets. Subscribers save a full 33 percent over the cost of purchasing single tickets.

In addition to saving 33 percent on all subscriptions, those who subscribe before June 15 will be given $2 in "play money" to be used for any guest ticket to "The Threepenny Opera," running until May 23, or to the first production of "That Championship Season." This is the

Princeton High School Music Teacher to Serve As Assistant Conductor of Festival in Spoleto

Nancianne Parrella, associate director with William Trego of choral music at Princeton High School, has been invited to be the organ soloist in the Poulenc Organ Concerto at the Spoleto Festival of Two Worlds in Italy this summer. It will be her first time abroad since the memorable trip with the High School in its appearance in the 1973 youth choral festival in Vienna.

She was invited by David Agler, who is the general director for the American participation in the festival (TOWN TOPICS, March 25), and will have the title of assistant conductor. In addition to the Poulenc concerto in which the Stuttgart Ballet will dance, she will be the piano accompanist for rehearsals of the Westminster Choir in the Verdi Requiem and will play harpsichord and piano in some of the operas.

Mrs. Parrella combines unusual musical capabilities as a teacher of nearly 20 years in the Princeton school system, as an accompanist and church organist and more recently as an organ recitalist in her own right. Born in Trenton, she is a graduate of Trenton State College where she was a piano major who took up the organ and gave a complete organ recital as well as playing the piano with the Trenton State College Orchestra for her graduation.

She did graduate work in organ at Union Theological Seminary's School of Sacred Music and at Westminster Choir College. In addition to her early studies with Albert Ludecke of Trinity Cathedral in Trenton, she has studied and coached with Vernon de Tar, head of the organ department at Juilliard in New York.

HAVING AN ORGAN IN THE HOUSE HELPS: Says Nancianne Parrella, PHS associate choral director who has been invited to play at Spoleto this summer. The versatile teacher also combines careers as a recitalist in New York churches and as a sought-after accompanist. (Orren Jack Turner Photo)

Taught at Nassau St. School. She began teaching at the elementary level at the Nassau Street School in 1957 and gradually moved upward, adding first the Middle School years, to become the associate in 1965 to Mr. Trego, with whom she team-teaches some 265 High School students in five different choirs. "I have the good fortune of working with wonderful people," she says, adding that she and Mr. Trego complement each other's strengths as they teach theory and history of music along with the choral work.

The turning point in Mrs. Parrella's life came in the fall of 1973 when she and her husband, Joachim, director of Middle School singing, moved with their two daughters from Trenton to West Windsor to accommodate the girls' after school activities in the Princeton schools. They both resigned as organist and choir director, respectively, of the First Presbyterian Church in Trenton after a long association. And they brought with them to their house on Slayback Road the three-rank Turner organ which had been used in the church while a larger organ was being built.

For the first time in 19 years, Mrs. Parrella had Sundays free to play in other churches, and she had her own in-house organ on which to practice. Frederick Grimes, organist of the Holy Trinity Litheran Church in New York City, invited her to play the continuo and other invitations quickly followed. She participated in a Bach cantata series at Holy Trinity this winter and will play in an organ dedicatory recital this fall. She has also substituted for John Weaver at Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church and for Donald MacDonald at Christ Methodist Church. In January she became assistant organist and choir director at All Saints' Church here.

Another exciting development in her musical life has been serving as accompanist in the choral workshops given in the summers at Westminster Choir College by luminaries such as Robert Shaw, John Nelson, Metropolitan Opera Conductor, and Wilhelm Ehmann, founder of the Westphalian Cantorum School in Germany for singers and church musicians. Robert Shaw affectionately inscribed her copy of Beethoven's Missa Solemnis with which she helped him prepare in workshop participants for an appearance of the Ambler and Mostly Mozart Festivals in gratitude for her "extraordinary co-directing from the piano."

Activites Vary Widely. The coming weeks reflect Mrs. Parrella's wide-ranging activities. On Thursday the Princeton High School Choir and the Princeton Freshmen Singers, which Mr. Trego directs, will sing a joint concert in Alexander Hall. Mrs. Parrella will play the continuo in the Bach Magnificat and on the piano will accompany in Persichetti's "Celebrations on Poems of Walt Whitman."

On May 27 in Carnegie Hall she will rehearse Robert Shaw's Chorus for their appearance with the Atlanta Symphony in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. In late May the annual Spring Concert given by all five High School choirs will take place. And on June 8 she will depart for a month at Spoleto.

"All the kids in my High School classes clapped and cheered when they heard I had been invited to Spoleto," she recounts appreciatively. "They want me to see if I can get an invitation for them, too."

HANDEL FEATURED

In Trinity Concert. Music by Handel will be featured in the ninth annual Spring Concert by the Trinity Choir of Men, Boys and Girls at Trinity Church on Sunday, at 8. Accompanied by orchestra, the 50-voice choir will sing the rarely - performed choral work, "Dixit Dominus."

Soloists will include Susan Robinson, soprano; Lois Laverty, mezzo soprano; Shirley Kinsley, mezzo soprano; Lester Erich, tenor and Wilbur Pauley, bass baritone. James Litton, organist and director of music at Trinity will conduct. Also included on the program will be the Organ Concerto No. 10 in D Minor by Handel with Harold Pysher, associate organist at Trinity as soloist.

This will be the final program in the Trinity - All Saints' Series of Concerts and Musical Services for the current season. Trinity's Choir of Men, Boys and Girls is known for its high standard of singing on records and in services and concerts in Princeton and in various other places from Boston to Washington. The boys and girls come from various schools in the Princeton area, and the men include students and faculty members from Westminster Choir College, Rutgers University and Princeton Theological Seminary.

Admission cards (suggested contribution $2 adult; $1 student) are available in the Trinity Church office and a limited number will be at the door before the concert.

OPERA STAR HERE

At McCarter Tuesday. The Metropolitan Opera star, Fredericka von Stade, mezzo-soprano, will appear Tuesday at 8:30 at McCarter Theatre in the fourth concert of Series I of the Princeton University Concerts.

A native of Somerville, Miss von Stade made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera in January of 1970. Since then she has risen steadily to become one of America's leading singers. A specialist in the "bel canto" roles of Mozart, Handel, Rossini, Bellini and Donizetti, she also gives performances in the French repertoire.

Among notable engagements, Miss von Stade has performed the title role of Cenerentola and Ottavia in the Rennert production of "L'Incoronazione di Poppea" for the San Francisco Opera; Cherubino in "Figaro" at the Glyndebourne Festival, the Salzburg Festival with von Karajan, and at Covent Garden in January of this year. When the Paris Opera reopened in April, 1973, with a new production of "The Marriage of Figaro," she was the only American chosen for

OPENING NIGHT FRIDAY

For Players' "U.S.A." "U.S.A." by John Dos Passos and Paul Shyre: six actors, portraying five or six times that many characters, their lives touched at many points by hundreds of others. It lends force to the final speech of the play, "But mostly USA is the lives of its people."

This drama, spanning the years 1900 to 1930 in America, will open in the Princeton Community Players theatre at 171 Broadmead this Friday at 8:30 p.m. Eight performances covering three weekends are scheduled.

Directed by Judith Forusz, with period costumes by Marie Miller, and choreographed by Sheila Clark, "U.S.A." is acted by Melinda Boroson, Anne Bredon, Diana Crane, Norm Friedman, Mike Gilbert and Ed Watkinson.

Tickets may be reserved by phoning 921-3477.

PRINCE

Seven Beauties...That's What They Call Him. Sex, politics and the Italian national character -- the themes that fascinate Lina Wertmuller -- have again been masterfully combined by her into a rich - textured, stunningly - realized tale of personal compromise and political collaboration.

The film stars Giancarlo Giannini as a World War II deserter whose machismo is so ingrained in his instinct for survival that he ends up "seducing" the sadistic female commandant of a Nazi concentration camp in the vain hope of saving his neck.

Taken at one of its many levels, "Seven Beauties" is a harsh, uncompromising examination of a national character that places superficial concerns with virility and social honor over any true value. Its prime focus is on the nature of human self-preservation and the depths to which a man will surrender mind, body and soul to save himself.

It is not without Wertmuller's unique brand of humor and the Neapolitan sequences are far closer in tone to her earlier films than the grimness that comes later Her richest film yet, one that will long linger disturbingly in her viewers' memories.

Deep Throat and The Devil and Miss Jones. Two of the earliest hard core porno films, are offered again, apparently as further proof that such fare is here to stay..

Deep Throat, the better of the two, has as much comedy as pornography, and is considered a classic among aficionados.

PLAYHOUSE

Dog Day Afternoon. Al Pacino is no less than brilliant as an inept but thoroughly sympathetic bank robber, in this Sidney Lumet film based on an incident that actually took place three years ago – the armed robbery of a Brooklyn bank by a pair of amateur thieves, one of whom pulled the job to finance his male lover's sex change operation.

Pacino's stunning performance meshes fear, sheer bravado and infectious humor into a character one's heart goes out to. John Cazale is particularly good as his trigger - happy but God - fearing accomplice.

As supportive crowds surge outside the bank the public and media embrace Pacino as a latter - day Robin Hood - until his original motive is made known,whereupon the crowd's mood turns ugly and malicious. A rich blend of characterization and social insight.

THREE, AT HUN

One-Acters. Hun School's drama club has roared off into the 20s, with presentation this Friday and Saturday of three short plays, all laid in that decade. They will be given in the auditorium of the school at 8 p.m.

The evening will open with Thornton Wilder's "Infancy," followed by "The Happy Journey to Camden and Trenton," also from Wilder's pen. The evening will conclude with Edward Albee's "The Sandbox." All plays deal with family relationships and all treat a serious theme with a touch of humor.

Amie Brockway is directing. In the casts of the three plays are Ken Baggely, Michael Bonotto, David Eisenstein, Mary Alice Flemming, Charlie Freed, Alison Gallup, Monica Hauser, Carol Krol, Jane Maddock, Tammy Pearson, Mary Rogers, Tod Stein and Steve VeShancey.

COMEDIES PLANNED

Outdoors By Wilson College. Wilson College, which last year presented Jean Anouilh's "Antigone" outdoors, this year plans to alternate two comedies on a special outdoor stage. The two plays, which would originally have been performed in courtyards or town squares, are Niccolo Machiavelli's "The Mandrake" and Georg Buchner's "Leonce and Lena."

Using a new version written especially for the production by Michael Mantell, director Daniel Wilson describes the Machiavelli comedy as bawdy, irreverent and very funny. "Leonce and Lena" is a fantasy about "a prince and a princess in popoland" and will feature original music composed and conducted by Brian Parsonnet, a University student.

"Leonce and Lena" will open Friday at 8:30 in the courtyard between Wilcox and 1938 Halls on the University campus. Additional performances will take place Saturday and Tuesday, and on Thursday and Saturday, May 6 and 8. "The Mandrake" will open Sunday, with performances Monday and Wednesday and on Friday and Sunday, May 7 and 9.

There is no admission charge. Reservations may be made by calling 452-3629.

Miss von Stade will perform works by Handel, Ives, Mahler, Liszt, Poulenc and Debussy. Tickets$6.95 and $5.50 are available at the McCarter Theatre Box Office. Student tickets at $2.50 may be obtained the day of the concert at the box office.

SPRING SINGING

High School, University. The Princeton High School Choir will join with Princeton University's Freshman Singers for a joint concert this Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Alexander Hall. The program will be conducted by William Trego.

Singing as a separate group, the University Singers will perform three compositions each from the works of Palestrina, Bruckner and Brahms. The high school choir will sing the first two movements of Persichetti's Mass, and two movements from his "Celebrations."

Together, the choirs will sing all six motets of Felix Mendelssohn's "Sechs Spruche." The motets have never been performed in Princeton before, and in fact, were only recenlly published in the United States.

After intermission, the two choirs will offer the "Magnificat" of J. S. Bach, accompanied by a full orchestra.

TWO CONCERTS PLANNED

By Mercer County Orchestra. The Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra conducted by Dr. Matteo Giammario will present its spring concerts on Wednesday May 5, at 8p.m. in the Kirby Arts Center of The Lawrenceville School, and Sunday, May 9, 3 p.m., Steinert High School, 2900 Klockner Rd., Hamilton Square.

The program will include "Semiramide" by Rossini, "Concerto No. 1 in E flat Major for Piano" by Liszt with Edward Ferdinand, pianist, and "Capriccio Espagnol" by Rimsky-Korsakov.

No admission is charged, as concerts are funded by Mercer Co. Park Commission, Music Performance Trust Fund, A.F. of Musicians, Local 62, Trenton and a grant from the N.J. Council on the Arts in co-operation with the National Endowment for the Arts.

Seven area residents, members of the MCSO include Carol Brown, Princeton University, Rachel Abelson, Princeton Day School, Peter Florey and Barbara Thompson of Princeton High School, Katrina Jones of Stuart School, Sue Greco and Jocelyn Kalajian of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School.

EARLY MUSIC PLANNED

By University Group. Musica Alta, a group performing music of the Middle Ages and Renaissance, will give a concert on Monday at 8:30 in 10 McCosh Hall on campus.

Directed by Robert Moreen, Assistant Professor of Music and the group's founder, the singers will perform Motet "Aeterne Laudis Lilium" by Fayrfax (1464 - 1521) and Missa 'L'Homme Arme" by Palestrina (1525 - 1594). Those performing will be, sopranos: Judith Feder, Katherine Rohrer and Marti Black; altos: Linda Mindlin and Henry Horn; tenors: David Hoekema, Susan Mandel and Peter Urquhart; bass: Christopher Reynolds, Anthony Cummings and William Darst. The only instrumentalist will be Susan Feder, violinist. Miss Feder is a senior, majoring in music.

The concert, sponsored by the Friends of Music, is free and open to the public.

TWO STUDENTS TO PLAY

In Piano Concert. Two Princeton University sophomores, Abigail Laufer and Cathleen Connolly, pianists, will give a concert on Sunday at 3 in Woolworth Center on campus.

Ms. Laufer, a graduate of the High School of Music and Art in New York City, was twice winner of the "Y" Symphonic workshop Concerto Competition and performed as soloist with that group. She has performed several times on radio, including an interview with WQXR's Robert Sherman in a program of Young American Pianists.

Ms. Laufer is presently studying with Alan Marks in New York. Her program will be Haydn: Sonata in E Minor; Schoenberg: Drei Klavierstucke, Opus 11 and Bartok: Suite, Opus 14.

Ms. Connolly was the 1973 winner of the Syracuse Concerto Contest and subsequently performed with the Syracuse Symphony Orchestra. At Princeton, she has been a member of the Freshmen Singers, Glee Club and Jazz Ensemble.

Ms. Connolly is currently a student of Jacob Lateiner of the Juilliard School. She will perform J. S. Bach: Prelude and Fugue in F. Minor; Beethoven: Sonata in E flat Major, Opus 81a and George Mulfinger: Toccata (1972).

Both pianists will perform Schubert's Fantasy for Four Hands, D. 940. The concert, sponsored by the Friends of Music, is free and open to the public.

DRATFIELD TO SING

Yiddish Folk Songs. "Songs of the Shtetl" will be performed by Lee Dratfield with Rita Asch, accompanist, Thursday at 8 in the West Room of Murray Dodge Hall. The program of Yiddish folk songs with text and explanations in English will be presented in topical and chronological order in a concert sponsored by the Hillel Foundation that is free and open to the public.

The songs of the ghettos of eastern Europe are surprisingly varied. By turns they are devotional, romantic, sad, funny and ironic, the music of people who have, in spite of all, remained in love with life. The program of 17 songs will include such favorites as Rhozhinkes Mit Mandlen, Bulbes, Chazn Oif Shabbos and a song recently smuggled out of the Soviet Union.

CONSORT NIGHT SET

By Recorder Society. The Princeton Recorder Society will meet Tuesday at 8 at All Saints' Church on Van Dyke Road. It will be consort night, with performances planned by nine small groups, as well as the president's party.

Village Story Appreciated.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

We appreciate your feature story about Princeton Community Village in the April 15th issue of Town Topics. Too many Princetonians have been unaware of the location of our exciting village, which is owned by the Board of Princeton Community Housing Inc.

The funding is through the New Jersey Housing Finance Agency with rent subsidies coming from HFA and HUD. The Corporation pays 15 percent of gross shelter rents to the Township in lieu of taxes. The village, comprising 239 units, would certainly not be a reality today without the dedicated assistance of the Township Committee.

The Village (not project) was designed by the local architectural firm Agle, Short, Holt, Morgan, Schwartz and built by the Robbins Construction Co. The Management is handled by Karl M. Light Real Estate of Princeton, with Marcy Crimmins and Lucy Graves as on site managers.

Kenneth Rochester heads the maintenance staff; patrolman Harry Morton is the security guard. The active resident participation on a volunteer basis contributes to the on site activities.

We are fortunate to live in a carefully planned, attractive, reasonably priced community. We are experienceing growing pains, as does any new community or program. We are luckier than most renters, however, because of the encouragement and dedication of management in correcting wrongs and involving residents through the Residents Council and village activities.

The need for this type of development has long been recognized as indicated by the continuous stream of applications. Thank you for making us known.

Blue Law Is Hypocritical.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Sunday Closing Law is an Exercise in Hypocrisy.

It allows you to buy a hammer and nails but not wood. It allows you to buy paint for recreational use (boats etc.) but not for your home.

It allows you to buy a shirt in Ocean County but not in Monmouth County. Authorities look the other way when a pair of trousers are sold in a Flea Market, but will close up a men's store.

Highway department stores are forced to rope off departments...supermarkets are not. It is a law that is enforced by some localities, ignored by others. The list of discrepencies goes on and on.

Uniformity is all we ask, and the only way to bring it about is to repeal this antiquated Blue Law.

ART
In Princeton

EXHIBITS VARY WIDELY

At Gallery of Fine Art. Werner Drewes' current paintings continue to reflect the artistic attitudes which he developed as a young artist. Born in Germany at the end of the 19th century, he attended the Bauhaus in 1922 and again in 1927 to study with Klee and Kandinsky.

Emigrating to the United States, where he has taught and painted for the past 45 years, Drewes brought with him the then innovative design principles of the Bauhaus. He combined them with a feeling for spatial relationships which was influenced by his training as an architectural student, resolving these elements into a style which he has consistently developed during his artistic career.

His most recent work, now on view at the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, has remained faithful to his original concepts of space and design. The paintings continue to examine form from a geometric point of view, making their statement through the subtle variations found between structural shapes. Within the familiar framework, however, Drewes' work has expanded. His color has altered to include electric relationships created by intense hues and dramatic contrasts resulting in a form of optical drama that was not present in his earlier works.

This new vigor and intensity is also found in more dynamic spatial variety than existed in previous collections. Earlier paintings relied on straight sided forms. The present collection is enriched by the judicious inclusion of curvilinear rhythms and visual tensions created by repeated silhouettes.

The combined effect of the heightened palette and more varied compositional elements create a new dynamism which is pleasingly combined with the more conservative structural relationships of this painter's earlier pieces.

At Squibb Galleries. Artifacts of Oceania, now on display at Squibb Galleries, reflect the close relationship between religion and everyday life in a primitive society. Themes and patterns that are part of the religious ritual are carried over into domestic objects. Masks and ancestral cult figures that are used in the rites of secret societies often carry the same motifs and themes as domestic utensils and implements of warfare.

The present collection is notable for its range and the age of many of the works. Although 75 years is a short span in other societies, the dense and humid jungle environment of Oceania destroys most of the wooden artifacts within a short time.

A side range of artifacts relecting many aspects of Oceanic life patterns are included in the display. Slit gongs, helmet masks and a series of statues used in puberty rites; house posts, weapons and a canoe paddle are all heavily decorated using geometric pattern, symbolic renderings of animals and the human form.

The sculpture and artifacts are predominantly worked in wood. Using pieces of shell or an occasional stone tool, the artists have created intricate, finely wrought patterns. These are often painted and further enhanced by the addition of shell or bone.

At Gallery 100. In the current collection of paintings at Gallery 100, Peter Cook has expanded his repertory to include the local landscape as well as the Maine scenery which is his trademark. Studies of the rocky coastline with the accompanying pleasant greenery that makes the Maine landscape a happy visual experience are rendered in naturalistic color using impasto brushwork.

The same painterly techniques are employed in the creation of winter skating scenes on Lake Carnegie and some views of the remaining local farmscape. Also included are this artist's portraits, which appear to render their subjects faithfully.

Bird carvings by his son, John, make this a family show. The birds are carved in walnut in a naturalistic fashion. Forms and shapes are simplified into fluid silhouettes. Cook uses walnut logs and develops a high finish to his work.

OCEANIC ART: A six-foot initiation dance costume worn by males of the Nggala tribe in the Upper Sepik region of northeast New Guinea is one of several pieces of oceanic primitive art going on display in Squibb Gallery.

At the Eye for Art. A collection of drawings by Tom Kindron support the thesis that a small, freely executed sketch can be a visually profound and technically exciting art experience. Kindron uses pen and ink and pencil, relying on line to develop his images. Nature studies, surrealistic renderings of unusual symbolic combinations and a series of freely executed portrait sketches are developed in sensitive line.

Kindron is able to control a simple medium and create linear harmonies while rendering familiar subjects. Obviously sensitive to both his subject and his medium, the drawings are a blend of classical techniques and poetic visual response.

HONORING JAPANESE ART:. . . and a distinguished scholar in the field of far Eastern art. A dinner was held in Propsect House on the Princeton University campus Saturday honoring Prolessor Shujiro Shimada (center) who retired last June from active teaching at the University. The dinner preceded the opening in the Art Museum of "Japanese Ink Paintings from American Collections," an exhibit which will continue to June 13. Enjoying the party with Prolessor Shimada are (left) Professor Goro Shimura of the mathematics department at the University and Dr. Saburo Ichii, visiting prolessor from Japan in the department of East Asian Studies.

PAINTINGS ON VIEW

From Japan at Art Museum. "Japanese Ink Paintings from American Collections" opened at the University Art Museum, Sunday and will continue until June 13. A group of ink paintings dating from the 14th through the 16th centuries, a time known as the Muromachi period in Japan, has been brought together for the first time in this country. This is a rare opportunity for layman and scholar alike to view a group of 37 important works, some only recently discovered, that span the Muromachi period.

The exhibition is in honor of Professor Shujiro Shimada, who retired from active teaching at Princeton in June 1975 and whose contribution to the study of Far Eastern art is unsurpassed in this country. Several collectors offered their paintings because of their esteem for Professor Shimada. Most of the important public and private collections of Japanese art are represented in the Princeton show.

Ink painting is executed on paper or silk with a wide range of values produced by black ink diluted with water. Its tools are those traditionally used for writing in China and Japan and its expressive possibilities are enormous. The paintings were usually mounted as hanging scrolls, to be displayed singly, in pairs, or in triptychs. Of the 37 works in the exhibition, most are hanging scrolls; there are also several six-fold screens.

Among the many Muromachi artists represented in the exhibition are the 14th-century Japanese Zen priest Tesshu Tokusai, whose intellectual and artistic position closely paralleled that of amateur scholar-painters in China; Isshi, a little-known 15th-century professional Buddhist painter; Kenko Shokei, an important Kamakura artist of the late 15th century; So'ami, one of the aesthetic advisors to the Ashikaga shogunate as well as a creative artist in his own right; and Kano Motonobu, a 16th-century professional artist who laid the foundation for what is known as the Kano school style of painting.

The paintings have been installed in the museum's lower galleries, which have been completely remodeled for the exhibition. Mrs. Shimada has arranged Japanese-style plantings and a replica of an "oshiita," a decorative alcove where the paintings were displayed in a 15th-century Japanese home, has been built.

The exhibition is documented by a fully illustrated 300-page catalogue, edited by Yoshiaki Shimizu and Carolyn Wheelwright, with essays about each painting written by Professor Shimada's colleagues and former students at Princeton. The catalogue, which represents a milestone in the study of Japanese art in this country, is available at the museum or from Princeton University ($18 paperback; $40 cloth). Publication of the catalogue was made possible by grants from Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morse and the JDR 3rd Fund.

OILS ON DISPLAY

At Medical Center. The Medical Center is presenting the oil paintings of Marian Van Hart of Princeton in its monthly show.

Born in Haddonfield, Mrs. Van Hart attended the Philadelphia Industrial Arts School and studied with many well known artists. Her paintings have been shown widely throughout New Jersey and Pennsylvania and she was awarded first place for her "Still Life with Bottle" in statewide competition. Her work on display at the Medical Center depicts scenes of The Quaker Bridge Canal, The Road at New Hope, Barnegat Light and The Home in Haddonfield.

Mrs. Van Hart, who lives at Merwick, is the mother of Betty Whelan, who recently completed her own showing at the Medical Center.

A good standing posture can be determined by using the plumb-line test. The test is conducted from a side view. The body is in good alignment if a straight line can be drawn from the ear through the shoulder, elbow, hip and knee joints, and to a point just in front of the ankle bone. By the time he is six years old, a child's leg should be straight. By the age of ten, the average youngster carries his head, neck and shoulders in good balance. The posture of adolescents needs the most attention. Their growth is rapid, and muscles are changing.

sophisticated things, instructionally, besides the usual scheduling and administrative records done through computers. It used to take 7-10 days to see grade distribution, for example, but the computer would give it to us in a few hours, so if kids or teachers had a problem, it was easy to get to it right away."

"Haddonfield is a town that goes all-out for the arts – many Philadelphia Orchestra musicians live there, and in fact I used to get a lot of complimentary copies of recordings from my friends in the Orchestra! But all this was for adults. The chances for kids in music and the arts weren't so good, but we provided a lot of new opportunities in those fields for kids in the schools."

"You hear a lot of talk that facilities aren't important – it's the teacher that counts and it's true – teachers come first. But poor facilities can be a deterrent, and when you see what can be done with languages, science, music..."

Language Lab Added. Haddonfield, under Chet Stroup, developed a radio-controlled language lab that could be wired into classrooms. And "one of the nifty things that pleased me so much was development of our Instructional Materials Center – our library had been a big deficiency. It was so good we got a two-year grant from the state Department of Education to explain the Center, in depth, to visitors. We used that $20,000 for audio-visual software....tapes, film strips, that kind of thing."

"And our satellite concept: we had science-math., business ed. and modern language resource centers linked to our I.M.C."

"No vandalism, none at all. I think it means that kids know the community cares, and the kids themselves like to work with these nice things."

Critics in Haddonfield frowned on such high school courses as photography, the art of the motion picture, and so on.

"But our photography course was an English course, and it turned on a lot of kids who were disenchanted with writing. I spent hours wading through the writing done in that class, and the kids had done some wonderful things. I felt very secure about that course and others and we kept them."

Early Start on T & E. In 1973, Haddonfield got the jump on requirements in the new Thorough-and-Efficient law, and undertook a goals study, using the model developed by Phi Delta Kappa, the education research fraternity. A random sample, using voter registration lists, turned up 60 people -- "Happily, they represented a fine cross-section of the town!" -- and these 60, after talking with their neighbors, sat down in the high school I.M.C. and ranked goals for the system.

"Communication skills turned out to be Number One," Chet says, "It was one of the most productive things - we turned out a 15-page report for the town, exposing our problems, pointing out our strengths and weaknesses. We were the first in the state to use the Phi Delta Kappa model, and of course, it put the district ahead on T. and E. goals-setting requirements."

Dr. Stroup's successor in Haddonfield is Matthew Costanzo, ex-superintendent of the Philadelphia Schools.

"He'd just reached the point.....! But I warned him, you're going to get a microcosm of city life right here. The chief difference of course is that we had no political interference."

"No Comment." Smilingly, Chet Stroup declines to talk about Princeton's schools although people have asked him, already, to become involved. No, he says.

After Rutgers – well, he had hoped to take a 'round-the-world trip with Kay and that had to be postponed, but it hasn't been abandoned. He'd like to do some consulting.

"T. & E. makes tremendous demands on a school system, and I think consultants will be essential. Few districts will have the manpower, for one thing."

And write some books, maybe.

"I get a cold chill when I see how out-of-date the books are. I found one, dated 1973, where it said educational TV may one day be used in schools! I've simply developed my own bibliography for the Rutgers classes – I'm not happy with the available texts."

But he clearly is happy at Rutgers.

"The hardest adjustment I had to make, was having a few minutes to sit at my desk in my new office, just thinking. Without that phone ringing! It was an easy adjustment to make."

CHILDREN'S FAIR SET

By Nursery School. The University League Nursery School will sponsor a Children's Fair Saturday from 11 to 3 with May 8 as the raindate. Proceeds will go to the Scholarship Fund.

Participants are invited to bring picnic lunches and blankets to Broadmead Field near the Stadium. Soft drinks and baked goods will be available.

Children of all ages may participate in many games of skill, take wagon rides and pony rides or watch a puppet show with Bert and Ernie characters at 11:30 and 2 and be assured of coming home with a prize. There will also be a flea market and a drawing for a stuffed toy alligator donated by the Toy Carousel.

The University League Nursery School is a parent cooperative run by certified teachers, assistants, a music specialist and all of the parents. Among this year's 64 students are children from India, Japan, England, Bangladesh and Israel. The school is open to University and non-University families, and children are accepted at age three until eligible for kindergarten.

HADASSAH TO BENEFIT

From Sale of Cards. As a tribute to mothers the world over, the Princeton Chapter of Hadassah has created and sponsored a unique card which is now being offered for sale. The greeting card features the design of freelance artist Anne Lowe of Princeton Junction, with interior calligraphy by Carol Pollard of Rocky Hill.

HOPING FOR AN ALLIGATOR: Davy Kahn (left) and Dave Greenbert, students at the University League Nursery School, pose with a stuffed alligator that will be raffled off Saturday at a Children's Fair to benefit the scholarship fund. Games, rides and puppet shows will be held from 11 to 3 on Broadmead Field.

The card has the word "Love" printed on the front, surrounded by the word "Mother" written in many languages. The inside reads, "In any language, Mother means love. Happy Mother's Day!" Each card, with matching envelope, has a donation cost of $1, and all proceeds will benefit Hadassah Medical Organization. HMO finances the two major hospitals in Israel, Mt. Scopus and Ein Karem, where patients, 40 percent of whom are Arab, are treated in the best medical tradition.

Cards may be purchased from Ann Sokoloff by calling 466-2562. They are also available from Hulit's Shoes, The Greenery Florists in Montgomery Shopping Center and Lucar Hardware, Princeton Junction.

SPRING FLING MAY 14

At Princeton High School. Princeton High School's third Staff-Community Dance, the Spring Fling, has been planned by the High School Committee for 9 p.m. Friday, May 14, in the large Gymnasium. All members of the community and staff are invited.

Jack Horner's band will present its "big band" sound for dancing and listening. Refreshments, entertainment and special decorations will be included in the evening. Tickets may be purchased at Hinkson's, Hulit's, and at each school building for $2.50 per person. Proceeds will go to the Student Activities Fund.

Co-chairmen for the event are Herbert Highfield and William Trego, assisted by Carmen Prezioso and Nancy DiMeglio, decorations; Jane Jacobs and Kay Yoder, refreshments; Sybil Parnes, tickets; Carol Wimberg, clean-up; Peg Hastings, publicity; with Gordon Silverstein and David Meyerhofer, sound & lighting.

DONOR LUNCHEON SET

By Princeton Hadassah. The culmination of the 1975-76 season of Princeton Hadassah's fund raising events, the Spring Donor Luncheon, will take place on Thursday, May 6, at 11:30 at "Albemarle," home of the Columbus Boychoir School, and will feature a concert by the choir.

The program will include selections of Jewish music as well as a portion of the Columbus Boychoir's performance of "I Never Saw Another Butterfly." This is a musical adaptation of poems, writings and sketches by children imprisoned in the Terezin concentration camp during the second World War. These children were about 9-13 years old, just as the boys are who will perform for the Columbus Boychoir School.

Proceeds of the luncheon, which involves a donation of $40, go to the Hadassah Medical Organization--the branch of Hadassah which finances the two large hospital complexes of Mt. Scopus and Ein Karem in Israel. These hospitals have attained world reknown for their treatment of Arab and Jew alike.

On the day of the luncheon, babysitting will be available for those who request it through Sharon Tarter, 924-4492. Information regarding the event may be obtained from the chairman, Deloris Sanders, at 921-2895.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you By John Bernard

One of the strangest of all Kentucky Derbys was the one in 1957 ... The owner of the horse Gallant Man, Ralph Lowe, reported he had a dream before the race that his horse would be leading but the jockey would stand up in the saddle too early, forcing the horse to slow down and lose ... Lowe had told his trainer about the dream -- and then in the 1957 Derby, it actually happened ... With Gallant Man leading with a short distance to go, the great jockey, Willie Shoemaker, misjudged the finish line, stood up in the saddle, and lost the race -- just as in Lowe's dream! ... What makes it even more of an oddity is that Shoemaker was one of the best and smartest of all jockeys.

+++

Ever wonder which golf course has the longest hole in the world ... It is at the Black Mountain Golf Club in North Carolina, where the 17th hole is 745 yards from the tee! ... It is a par 6.

+++

Did you ever think about the record of honesty of baseball umpires? ... The great ump, Bill Klem, once pointed out, "There've been bankers who were dishonest, there've been brokers, public figures, doctors, and even clergymen. But never has a big league umpire been found dishonest in his work. No umpire has ever been convicted of cheating in the history of major league baseball" ... That's quite a record.

+++

I bet you didn't know ... that many health insurance plans including Blue Cross - Blue Shield do not cover children after they reach 19 years old.

SPORTS In Princeton

TOUGH JOB AHEAD

For Princeton Baseball Team. Confronted by knowledge as the week began that the Eastern League title may already be out of reach, Princeton's baseball team was not only hoping that some of the front runners would lose again but that it could somehow manage to win all six of its remaining games.

The order was a tall one, because the Tigers have run into inconsistency so many times--this spring, and in other seasons when they appeared to have the makings of a championship team. One development was essential: ability on the part of defending champion Pennsylvania to earn at least a split with Columbia in their doubleheader this Wednesday. If the Lions swept the twin bill, their 12-2 mark would be out of Princeton's reach.

Cornell, which has played only four of its 14 games, will be here Friday at 3 for a single contest. The Red was rained out of a doubleheader with Yale last weekend, and will reschedule it only if it has a shot at the title when its season ends in mid-May.

Army has but two losses in six games and will remain very much in the running if it can trim Navy at Annapolis Friday. Fortunately for the Tigers, the cadets will throw their top pitcher at their traditional rival before coming here for a twin bill Saturday that will start at 1 o'clock.

Should Columbia split this Wednesday, the Tigers will be faced with the need of winning their games this weekend, as well as sweeping a single contest with Harvard and a doubleheader with Dartmouth next week. Those games are on the road, and even though the two New England teams are far below their usual form this season, Princeton has traditionally not done well against them.

Rutgers Finally Beaten. Princeton won a game last week it dearly wanted, but the victory not only was of no value in the league standings but removed from weekend pitching rotation a capable hurler in junior Bob Tufts. He was the winning pitcher in last Wednesday's 11-3 rout of Rutgers, which the Orange and Black had not beaten on the diamond since 1972. However, when he worked six innings on a cool, windy afternoon, he was unavailable for any of the three league games, only one of which the Tigers won.

Rutgers had a 1-0 lead when the home team came to bat in the last of the fifth and exploded for six runs. With two aboard, third baseman Ed Kuchar rocketed a triple to right center and scored a moment later on Captain Glenn Christy's fine squeeze bunt. Two more runs crossed on Jack Basta's double, and the Tiger catcher came home with the sixth run on a sacrifice fly.

The visitors crept up to 6-3, Mike French came in to relieve Tufts and Mark Softy finished out the game. Five more Princeton runs in the late innings ran the Princeton winning streak to six, but the surge failed to carry it through the weekend successfully.

Sophomore Paul Zoubek was the choice to tame Columbia's hard-hitting Lions, but he lasted only into the sixth inning. A grand-slam into the Harlem River proved his undoing, the New Yorkers coasting from there to an 8-3 triumph.

Next day, Columbia polished off Navy twice to take a commanding position in the race, after having finished last a year ago. It was prior to World War II that the Lions last won a league title in baseball.

French Knocked Out. After taking the first game with Penn Saturday at Philadelphia, the Tigers appeared to be in the cat bird's seat, with French waiting to pitch against the Quakers. The Tiger senior had a 1.31 earned run average going into the game, based largely on shutouts over Yale and Navy.

He failed to retire a man in the second, however, yielding three runs and giving way to sophomore Andy Kannenberg. The latter was promptly greeted with a bases-loaded homer by Penn catcher Rich Krieger, the second such blast off Tiger hurling in 24 hours.

Princeton had taken the first contest, 3-1, as Softy hurled well, if erratically. In trouble on occasion, he left eight runners on base and the lone tally charged to him was unearned.

The game was tied 1-all at the end of the regulation seven innings, the two runs that won riding home on a single by second baseman Kevin Kaufman. His triple in the fourth had accounted for Princeton's first run.

Sunday's game with Fairleigh-Dickinson was rained out, and the Tigers were scheduled to play Wagner and Temple here in mid-week games before returning to league action Friday.

DARTMOUTH DEFEATED

By Tigers in Lacrosse. Six goals which Princeton's lacrosse team scored before Dartmouth got one left little doubt about the outcome of Saturday's game at Hanover. The Tigers' 17-5 triumph was their third in eight games, and gave them a 2-1 mark in Ivy action.

To make sure that the victory was secure, the Orange and Black finished with an outburst of seven goals in the final period. Dave Tickner and Tom Layden each scored three times for Coach Art Robinson's team, Tickner adding three assists for a total of six points.

Wick Sollers was credited with a goal and four assists. The latter, with 35 points on the season, now trails Tickner by two in their race for individual honors.

Princeton will play Harvard next at Cambridge, the outcome determining which team will finish in fourth place in the Ivy standings, since Cornell (no. 1 nationally last week), Penn and Brown figured as the top three. Tuesday will see the Tigers travel to New Brunswick to face Rutgers.

CREW FACES HARVARD

After Winning Childs Cup. The best crew Princeton has had in a decade will row against Harvard, almost invariably the best crew in the east, Saturday on the Charles River at Cambridge. MIT is the third entry in the race for the Compton Cup, which the Crimson almost always wins.

The Orange and Black will, however, pull away from the stake boat with greater optimism than it has generated since 1965—the date of its last victory in the Childs Cup regatta. That trophy, oldest in college rowing, will return to Princeton shortly on a basis of the Tigers' victory last Saturday on the winding Schuylkill River.

Refusing to yield Penn its accustomed margin in the early going, Coach Pete Sparhawk's young oarsmen surprised by staying with the favored Quakers. A third of the way down the 2,000-meter course, the Tigers began to pull in front, leading by a full length with 700 meters still to go.

Despite the brief attack of nausea suffered by one of its oarsmen, Princeton withstood a stiff Penn challenge, crossing the finish line with a margin of half a length. Its winning time was 6:14.2. Penn was clocked in 6:16.2, while Columbia trailed by better than seven lengths. The Quakers' second varsity won, as did the Princeton freshmen.

The Tigers have now beaten Rutgers, Navy, Penn and Columbia. It is the first time in a dozen years that they have won their first three races.

On Carnegie Lake, the 150-lb. oarsmen outrowed Rutgers and Cornell, winning over the Scarlet by a third of a length. They will row against Penn here Saturday for the Wood Hammond Cup, with the varsity race at 4 preceded by two others at 15-minute intervals.

EDISON ROUTED 14-1

By PHS Lacrosse Team. Taking its frustration out on Edison, the Princeton High School lacrosse team recorded an easy 14-1 victory Friday behind its top scorer, Morgan Mohrman, who had five goals and five assists.

The Little Tigers (3-3) were frustrated because two days earlier they had lost an 8-5 decision to rival Princeton Day School, a team that has had PHS's number the last few years.

Coach Bill Cirullo's team will be on the road next week, playing Hunterdon Central on Saturday and Johnson Park Regional on Wednesday.

"He really had a game...10 points, you don't see that to often," commented Cirullo about Mohrman's exploits against Edison. Johnny Morris was the other top scorer for PHS with five points--four goals and an assist. Jamie Lesher had one goal and three assists.

Also scoring single goals were Dan Schulman--his first of the season--Brian Cleveland, Bobby Campbell, and Stuart Brown. PHS dominated the home team, leading 7-0 at the half.

Decided Early. In contrast, the game with PDS was decided, said Cirullo, in the first five minutes. The Panthers took the opening face off, raced downfield and scored within the first 10 seconds. Before the game was five minutes old, PDS had two more and although the Little Tigers managed to play the visitors even the rest of the game, those opening minutes proved decisive.

"We had a mental lag, our defense did not react in the first period," said Cirullo. "We played well in spurts but I have to give PDS credit: they took the ball away from us every time we tried to come back. They have a good team. They outplayed us."

Morhman led the PHS attack with a pair of goals, while Brown, Chris Cahill and Steve Mapes added single tallies. Lesher had three assists and Phil Billington and Campbell were also credited with assists.

PHS 13-4 VICTIM

In Lacrosse. "We got slammed. They took the game away from us from the opening minute," commented Bill Cirullo, after he had watched Lawrenceville School trample his lacrosse team Monday, 13-4. "We just made too many mistakes.

Jamie Lesher, Stu Brown, Morgan Mohrman and Phil Billington each scored for PHS, Lesher and Morhman adding assists. Defenseman Nate Harris, who played a fine game, said Cirullo, also had two assists.

The loss dropped the Little Tigers below the .500 mark with a 3-4 record.

MOSLEY DOUBLE WINNER

For PHS in Track. Despite four first-place finishes by Lawrence High's Manny Modu, the Princeton High School track team defeated the Cardinals Monday for its fourth dual meet victory. The score was 78-60.

Mosley won the discus with a toss of 112-2 and led a PHS sweep of the javelin with a 152-7 effort. Royce Flippin won the mile in 4:37.5, well ahead of teammate John Riddell, who came in second with a 5:07 clocking. Japhet Woolston led a PHS sweep of the 880 with his time of 2:11.5. Teammate Nick Piroue (2:13.2) was second.

Woolston then combined with Fred Berkelhammer, Lance Phox and Ken Bullock to win the mile relay in 3:43.4 as Lawrence was timed in 3:51. Princeton's other first came in the long jump which Barry Turner won with a leap of 19-9.

Among those capturing seconds for PHS were Ron Reiman in the 120-yard hurdles (18.6); Tony Strong in the 100-yard dash (10.3); Strong in the 440 (55.7); Berkelhammer in the 330-yard hurdles (46.7); Strong in the 220 (23.1); Tim Doig in the two-mile (11.27); Eric Suber in the shot put (41-5½); Berkelhammer in the high jump (5-10) Mike Intartaglia in the javelin (145-0) and Reiman in the pole vault (10-0). In 14 events, PHS had a second in 12.

Modu won the 100 and 220, the high jump and 120-yard hurdles for Lawrence.

BASEBALL TRYOUTS SET

For Summer Leagues. Little League, Babe Ruth and Senior Babe Ruth League baseball tryouts have been announced by Dean Chace, President of the Princeton Youth Baseball Association.

Little Leaguers, 9 to 12, who have not played in the league before will be given an opportunity to hit, throw and catch at registration to be held Saturday, May 8 and 15, at Grover Park Field from 9 to noon. The League will consist of eight teams sponsored by the Eagles, Elks, Princeton's Fire Companies No. 1 and 3, the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 380, Post 76 and Roma Eterna. Play will begin June 8; each team will play a 14-game schedule ending July 22.

The Babe Ruth League for players 13 to 15 will have tryouts for all new players Friday, May 21, at the Valley Road School field at 6. Twelve league games will be played on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 6, beginning June 14.

LaVake Jewelers will join the Policemen's Benevolent Association, Princeton Bank and Trust Company and Tiger Garage as sponsors of this year's teams.

The Policemen's Benevolent Association will again sponsor the Sr. Babe Ruth team. Beginning its second season, the League will hold tryouts Monday, May 17, for boys 16 to 18, at Princeton High School Field at 6. Competing against teams throughout Mercer County, the Seniors will play 20 contests beginning June 2 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Registration fees are $7.50 for Little League and Babe Ruth teams and $10 for Senior Babe Ruth. Babe Ruth players should also bring their birth certificates to tryouts.

Chace also announced the addition of Gerald Skey and John Dumont as new PYBA Board Members joining William Bruschi, Robert Cronin and Jack Petrone. Gerald Skey will assume the job of the late George Ferguson, who headed the Little League Program and whose efforts in behalf of PYBA contributed greatly its success.

Many opportunities exist for those interested in assisting the League as umpires, assistant coaches, reporters or scorers. If interested, call Chace at 921-7230.

LAWRENCEVILLE JOLTED

By Hun Nine, 12-2. Any prestige that the Hun School baseball team may have lost in dropping a one-run decision to Princeton High School last week was immediately regained on Saturday when Hun shocked previously unbeaten Lawrenceville School, 12-2.

Ahead 3-1, Hun combined a grand slam by Bob Mendelson that capped a seven-run fourth inning, and the two-hit pitching of Ernie Barbiero to win its sixth in eight starts. "We came back strong," said Hun coach Bill McQuade. "Except for one inning we played extremely well defensively."

The schedule is crowded for Hun as it reaches the half-way mark. It will be at Admiral Farragut Friday and then play host to Newark Academy on Saturday (10:30) and Peddie on Monday (3:45). It meets Pennington next Wednesday and was scheduled to oppose Pennsylvania School for the Deaf this Wednesday.

Against Lawrenceville, Hun rapped out 12 hits, including a homer by Jim Cortina and a triple by Tom Dunn. "The hitting was spaced out all down the line," said McQuade.

Working five innings, Barbiero limited Lawrenceville to a pair of hits, one a triple by Seth Waugh. Junior Bob Kwiatoski pitched the final inning for Hun, striking out the side.

On Thursday, Hun appeared to have its game with Princeton High School won when it scored a go-ahead run in the eighth inning but PHS came back to score two in its half of the inning for its first win of the year. (The game is covered in detail elsewhere in this section.)

"I thought we had them, but two errors opened the door," said McQuade.

Still earlier in the week, Hun ripped Perkiomen 17-3, as Mendelson stroked a pair of two-run homers and had six runs batted in for the day. Barbiero was dominating on the mound, striking out seven and limiting Perkiomen to one hit -- a fourth inning double. The winless home team made it easy for hun by committing nine errors.

A PRINCETON AFFAIR

On Lacrosse Field Friday. The Princeton High School girls lacrosse team had no difficulty in defeating Montclair last week for its second win of the season but the same will not be true when the Little Tigers clash Friday with Princeton Day School. The game will begin at 3:30 on the PHS field.

"Princeton Day School is one of our best games of the season," said PHS coach Joyce Jones. "They always give us a good game (PHS won by one goal last year) and I'd say the stickwork of the two teams is about equal. Really, if one wants to see good girls' lacrosse, I feel this is one of the better games of the season."

After PDS, the Little Tigers will be at Chatham Township Monday and play host to Stuart Country Day on Wednesday.

Left attack wing Nini Wert led the PHS rout of visiting Montclair with five goals, four in the first half. The final score was 17-1. Libby Hicks and May Shillaber each added three goals apiece. "We played really well," agreed Miss Jones.

Also scoring for PHS were Mary Bolster, who had two second-half goals; Kristen Nelson, Carol Ludlum and Amy Lessing.

The difference in the two teams? "Overall, I thought our stickwork was the main difference," commented Miss Jones. "It was much superior."

Flippin in 9:09.5 2-Mile

Royce Flippin, Princeton High School's outstanding distance runner, who likes to run the mile but performs better in the two-mile, finished fourth last week in the annual Penn Relays' scholastic two-mile event.

Flippin, whose announced goal is nine minutes flat, was less than ten seconds under that barrier as he was clocked in 9:09.5. The PHS senior, who will enter Princeton University this fall, had run the distance only twice before this season.

Alberto Salazar of Wayland, Mass., won the event in 8:53.7, bettering the previous scholastic record by almost seven seconds.

WOMEN'S GOLF STARTS

At Springdale. Women members of Springdale Golf Club began their 1976 season with a member-member Scramble Tournament, which was won with a 65 scored by Mrs. Jean Brown, Mrs. Delores Allaire, Mrs. Irene Oppenheim and Mrs. Doris Brinster.

Runners-up were Mrs. Lu Millman, Mrs. Ann Dix, Mrs. Barbara Ellis and Miss Margaretta Cowenhoven. In third place were Mrs. Kay Conover, Mrs. Mary Rogers, Mrs. Shirley Turgeon and Mrs. Margaret Orr.

WORKBOOKS AVAILABLE

On Tennis Teaching. A new, revised -- and for the first time, illustrated -- set of Self-Teaching Tennis Workbooks are now available. Written by Eve Kraft and John Conroy, co-directors of the Princeton Community Tennis Program, they feature the Princeton Method of Instruction -- self-programmed learning guides for students and step-by-step instruction for teachers.

In addition to pictures, the new set pays more attention to adults and women players. The set of three -- beginner and advanced beginner, intermediate and advanced player, and the tennis teacher's guide -- serve as a model program for tennis instruction throughout the country, according to Mrs. Kraft, and are translated and distributed throughout the world. The books began as simple mimeograph sheets in 1955; a bound version appeared in 1963 and was revised again in 1969. They are available at the Community Tennis Program office, 71 University Place.

PHS GIRLS WIN, LOSE

In Softball. The Princeton High School girls softball team kept its record at .500 last week when it defeated St. Anthony and lost to South Brunswick, both games ending 7-6.

Coach Fred Carmen noted that his team will have to maintain that .500 average by the cutoff date this Friday in order to participate in the state tournament. PHS will play host to Lawrence High on Friday in a 3:45 contest.

Early in the week, PHS atoned for a previous one-run loss at the hands of St. Anthony, winning 7-6, behind the pitching of its ace, Debbie Breithaupt. Peggy Wood homered and tripled for the Little Tigers.

Against South Brunswick Thursday, PHS lost by one when the home team scored the winning run in the last inning off Breithaupt, who had relieved Carol Mazzola. Debbie was more effective at the plate, where she batted 4-for-4. "She hits the ball sharp every time," commented Carmen, who also cited the fine play of his catcher, Everal Kerton.

"We have a decent ball club," he added, "but we are still guilty of little mental boo-boos."

HOW SWEET IT IS

S Nine Is A Winner. It's possible that in the space wo days, the Princeton gh School baseball team has turned its season around.

Friday the Little Tigers won a dramatic 5-4 victory over Steinert on the strength of Keith Phox's two-out ninth inning two-run homer; the previous day they won a 7-6 victory over Hun School in tra innings.

The wins were the first for the Little Tigers after five opening losses and it marked the first time PHS has won two in a row for coach Jim O'Neill. The mood of the Blue and White after the Steinert win was more than jubilant. It was ecstatic. Said O'Neill after the Hun victory, "Winning isn't everything but it is a lot better than losing."

The Little Tigers will try to keep its momentum rolling Friday when it travels to Ewing for a 4 p.m. contest and on Tuesday when it will be at Trenton.

Against Steinert, which had gone ahead in the sixth inning when pinch-hitter Paul Tweedly had doubled into the football field stands, sending two runs across for a 4-3 Spartan lead, O'Neill gathered his team together before its last at bat.

"You remember what it was like when we lost by one run to St. Anthony and when we lost v one run to Lawrenville...you remember what was when we beat Hun in the tom of the last inning...that's what we've got ow. Let's go at this kid and one to tie and one to win."

THE SMILE OF VICTORY: Outfielder Jim Lennon is all smiles after his extra-inning hit gave PHS a 7-6 victory over Hun last week. It was the Little Tigers' first win of the season.

No News Is Good News. PHS began as if it hadn't heard. Dave Seagers, who had homered for Princeton's third run in the fourth, looked at a suspicious third strike. After Jim Lennon, the hero in the Hun victory, went down swinging, reliefer Gary Malinoski was just one out away. The Steinert bench had its gear packed.

He never got it. Mike Boonin kept Princeton's flickering hopes alive with a blooper over second. Then Phox, inserted in the last inning at third for defensive purposes, worked the count to 3-2. The sophomore fouled off two more pitches. The next pitch he rifled to center and as the ball just kept rolling and rolling, the PHS bench and O'Neill erupted with joy.

"Great game. That's the way to fight back," said O'Neill. Alex Robertson went the distance for PHS and got the win. Princeton had taken a 2-0 lead in the third when shortstop Scott Thompson doubled home two runs.

Against Hun, PHS started well. Al Kandell singled home a run in the first, Seagers tripled home Lennon who had singled in the second and with two down, designated hitter Jim LaPlaca doubled home two runs and Dave Miller followed with a single to give PHS a 5-2 lead after three innings. Hun pitcher Tom Sumners settled down and held PHS scoreless for the next four.

Hun, meanwhile, a strong hitting team, was getting in some good shots against PHS pitcher Keith Phox. It scored single runs in the second, third and fourth and then tied it at 5 with a pair in the sixth. After two walks and a Jim Cortina single had loaded them up, Pete Sciabetta, Hun's third baseman, singled.

In the eighth inning, Hun went ahead when Tom Dillione singled and with two out, Bob Innocenzi hit a short fly to left. Jim Lennon made a fine diving catch of the ball only to have it slip out of his glove, allowing pinch runner Ken Duvin to score in a close play at the plate.

From Goat to Hero. Princeton began its last chance auspiciously when John Miller was safe on an infield error. He was thrown out trying to steal, however, on a perfect peg by Hun catcher Jack Porcelli.

Seager was safe when Sciabetta made a dazzling stop of his grounder at third but then threw wildly to first. Boonin followed with a bunt single.

Lennon, up next, exchanged his goat horns for a hero's garland when his drive to left got by Dillione. He was out at the plate but not before two runs had scored giving PHS its win.

"We needed this one today. We had a tough time with extra-inning games and the guys had gotten down a little bit," O'Neill reported.

Hun coach Bill McQuade had brought his ace, Ernie Barbiero in to pitch the last inning. "He's not overpowering but he usually gets them to hit it on the ground. This time he didn't."

THREE MORE VICTORIES

For PHS Netmen. "Everyone is playing well, I just hope we can keep going like this," commented Joe Diefenbach, Princeton High School tennis coach, after his team had defeated West Windsor, Notre Dame and Lawrence last week – all by an identical 5-0 score.

Winning singles matches in Friday's contest with West Windsor were Dan Aronovic, Steve Ebersole and Allen Aronovic. Triumphing in doubles play were the pairing of Lewis Snijders and Mike Loew, and Andy Besser and Seth Sanders.

Future matches include contests against Hopewell Valley on Friday, West Windsor Tuesday and Lawrence on Wednesday. The team's record is presently 4-1.

Girls Win Pair. The PHS girls tennis team, coached by Carol Wimberg, remained unbeated with a 5-0 win over West Windsor Friday and a 4-1 triumph earlier in the week over Lawrence.

Victors in singles play against West Windsor were Karen Clark, Lora Jaffin and Leslie Krause. Vera Jesser, the regular number two player, was sidelined with a torn muscle in her leg.

The number one doubles team of Ellie Rose and Vicki Phillips and the number two pairing of Laurie Blum and Nancy Ackerman also won easily.

The girls will be at Metuchen, Hightstown and Trenton on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, playing three matches in three days.

PDS NINE WINS FIRST

But Drops Two More. Mental mistakes and fielding errors continue to plague the Princeton Day baseball team, now 1-5 on the season. And, unfortunately, this combination is sending good Panther pitching down the drain.

Sophomore hurler Mike Walters was working on a nifty one-hit shutout against Pennington Monday, until two infield errors helped the home team pull out a 3-2 win in the final inning.

The contest was scoreless until the top of the sixth, when PDS tallied twice. Bill Baggitt singled with one out, stole second and advanced to third on a fielder's choice. Walters walked, and pinch runner Chris Szuter stole second. David Barondess then got an infield hit, driving in Baggitt and Szuter also scored when Pennington tried to catch him off third.

Walters went into the bottom of the seventh needing just three outs to preserve his masterpiece, but he never got them. An error followed by a triple, a walk, another error on a ground ball, an intentional pass and a single gave Pennington the ball game. Walters struck out seven along the way.

The Blue and White also failed to take advantage of several scoring opportunities, once with the bases loaded and none out, leaving nine men on base in all.

The season's first victory came last Wednesday against Montclair, who, if anything, was worse in defensively than PDS. A seven-run first inning got the Panthers off to a flying start, and they won easily, 13-3. Walters was the winning pitcher.

Two days later in an away game against Delbarton, the home team broke open a 3-3 game in the bottom of the fifth scoring five runs. The final score was 10-5, with Barondess tagged with his second loss of the season.

PDS BEATS PHS

In Lacrosse. The Princeton Day lacrosse team split a pair of contests last week, beating Princeton High, 8-5, on Thursday, and then losing to Peddie, 8-2 on Monday.

Now 4-2 on the season, the Panthers will meet Essex Catholic on Friday at home at 4. On Wednesday they were scheduled to play Montville away. Montville is the co-leader on the Garden State League with PDS.

Baseball Tryouts Set

Post 76, American Legion, will hold baseball tryouts for boys born on or after August 1, 1957, at the Princeton High School Field on Saturday and Sunday at 11. All boys in Princeton and West Windsor school districts are eligible.

"We got the first three goals and that made the difference," commented coach Bob Krueger about the PHS contest. The Little Tigers managed to narrow the score to 4-2 before the period ended, but were never able to catch up. Each team scored once in the second period, and then the Blue and White tallied three more in the third to lock up the contest.

"They had an excellent attack, but we managed to control the ball a good part of the time, and kept the ball away from them," Krueger said. Doc O'Connor and Rob Olsson each had a hat trick, with Jim Daubert and John Haraldson scoring once.

Peddie, was a different story, however. "They were not that much better than us," Krueger said. "I think our team just got psyched out."

A score off of a fast break gave Peddie an early goal, and the winners added another, before Peter Buck tallied for PDS. In the second quarter, Peddie moved to a 3-1 lead with a goal on a man-up situation. "We had too many (14) penalties," Krueger pointed out.

It was still a close contest, until the third period, when four unanswered Peddie goals proved decisive. PDS got its other score in the fourth quarter from Bill Erdman.
